NEXT STEP IN SHORTAGE UP TO OFFICIAL

Prosecutor Asserts Action in Ports Case to Be Guided by Examiner's Report.

RESTITUTION MADE IN FULL

Court Records Show Bonding Firm Paid $3,000, Ousted Clerk Remainder.

With restitution of $4,259.31 made to municipal court to cover shortages in the accounts of former Clerk Allen K. Ports, Richland County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott today awaited a special report from the state auditor's office in Columbus before considering any action he may take in the case.

While the report is expected here within a few days, Marriott said he would be guided in any proceedings, by findings made in the audit recently completed by State Examiner Elmer Zook.

Declines to Comment.

He declined to comment on what course of action he might take until he received the report.

"When I am officially notified of the shortage, this office will take whatever steps are necessary," Marriott said.

Payment of the shortage was effected at a meeting at city hall late yesterday afternoon, attended by Ports, his father, J. Earl Ports; Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, Zook, P. M. Eliot, secretary-treasurer of the Farmers Savings and Trust company, K. E. Destler of Norwalk, district adjuster for the Ohio Casualty Insurance company of Hamilton, who held the former clerk's surety bond, and Atty. R. J. Nichols.

Revealed By Journal Entry.

Following an hour's conference Judge Kalbfleisch made public his journal entry revealing receipt of $3,000 from the bonding company and its release. The entry also showed that Ports had made restitution of the balance of $1,259.31.

Emerging from the conference with his father, Ports declined to discuss the meeting.

"I have nothing to say," he replied.

It was learned today that Ports had accepted a position in La Crosse, Wis., and that he would leave Mansfield shortly to make his home there.

Destler, who received a copy of the release, said he could not reveal what if any steps the bonding company would take to protect its payment of the former clerk's bond.

"If you want that information, you'll have to get it from the judge," he said. "Arrangements have been worked out with him in a conference and he knows what Ports intends to do."

BACKS CANAL

Woodring Recommends Waterway From Lake Erie to Ohio.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary Woodring forwarded to congress today a report recommending the construction of a canal from Lake Erie to the Ohio river.

The report, signed by the chief of army engineers, Major Gen. Julian L. Schley, recommends the construction of a waterway extending from the Ohio river through the Beaver, Mahoning and Grand River valleys to Lake Erie.

It would have a minimum depth of 12 feet, generally 250 feet wide. Its cost was estimated at $207,257,000. The minimum width would be 200 feet.

President Oscar Benavides is still president of Peru due to quick action by the Peruvian army which put down a revolt by Gen. Antonio Rodriquez, minister of government and interior. A few hours after President Benavides left the country on vacation Rodriguez attempted to seize the presidential palace in Lima. He was shot and killed.

GETS HOSPITAL REPORT TONIGHT

Council to Hear of Offers on Care of Indigent and Water Rates at Session.

A report of negotiations with the General hospital by Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist for a water rate proposal and a contract for the city's indigent patients, will be presented to city council when it meets as a committee of the whole tonight.

Nist, who declined to comment of the progress of negotiations between the hospital board trustees and council's finance committee at a session behind closed doors at city hall yesterday, said a "tentative agreement" had been reached.

He admitted that the city had made several proposals and that the trustees had countered with a plan to hike the city's $4.25 daily rate for indigent care to offset a flat monthly water rate which the city has sought to establish.

Officials took the initiative of seeking to establish a water rate for the hospital following findings made for several years by state examiners against the water department for giving "free water" to the institution.

It was learned that the city proposed a $300 per month flat rate charge to the hospital for its water when trustees sought to increase the daily patient rate to $5 per person and charge the city for half of the X-ray costs.

Both groups had finally discarded the X-ray charge, it was understood, because of the bookkeeping involved and had reached a compromise on the water and patient rate.

Council tonight also will seek to select one of three courses of engineering for a city-wide survey of the sanitary sewer system.

They will be told by Mayor Claude M. Hunter that the state department of health will approve any of the three methods which they choose to select.

BRICKER GETS UCC 'RIPPER' BILL TONIGHT

Senate Speeds Final Action on Measure to Oust Dems From Insurance Jobs.

Committees Map Hearings on Bills Revising Welfare and Tax Departments.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio senate leaders moved today to send the administration's first "ripper" bill to Gov. John W. Bricker's desk and give him control over the state's $100,000,000 unemployment compensation system now dominated by Democratic office holders.

Final legislative action on the measure—senate concurrence in house amendments—was scheduled for today's session with the prospect that the bill might be ready for the governor's signature by nightfall

Hit as 'Job Grab.'

Bitterly opposed by organized labor and assailed as a Republican "job grab" by the Democratic minority, the bill places the jobless benefit organization under an administrator, scrapping the present commission, and sets up review and advisory boards to aid administration.

Scheduled final enactment of the measure followed vigorous criticism of the "ripper" by former Gov. Martin L. Davey, whose appointees now control the system.

Speaking at a Mt. Vernon Jeffersonian banquet, the former governor accused his successor of "political chicanery" and "unscrupulous procedure to get control of these (unemployment compensation) jobs."

Senate committees meanwhile ordered hearings today on two additional reorganization measures. Majority Leader Frank E. Whittemore said the senate would pass before the week-end a "ripper" bill aimed at the parole board and early next week another reorganiz-

ELECTION SET

Cardinals Announce March 1 Date to Choose New Pope.

VATICAN CITY —(AP)— Cardinals at the Vatican announced officially today they would meet in conclave March 1 to elect a new Pope.

They previously had predicted they would start the conclave Feb. 28, with voting to begin the following day after Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and the two South American prelates arrived.

The Vatican announced, however, that the Cardinals decided the opening ceremony would be March 1. Voting consequently will begin March 2.

All the 62 Cardinals are expected to attend.

Speculation quickened on the chances of various Cardinals, although all conceded there was little upon which to base predictions.

Only Uniting of Democracies Will Stop Hitler, Czech Says

Adolf Hitler's policy of "peace by oppression, peace by empire building," will encompass all of Central Europe and will extend to the western hemisphere, if the democracies of the world do not unite against him, Dr. Karl W. Deutsch, Sudeten German of Prague, Czechoslovakia, told an audience of 550 persons last night at Senior High school auditorium.

Dr. Deutsch's lecture on "The New Order In Central Europe" was the first of a series of five lectures for the Institute of International Understanding which is being sponsored by the University and Rotary clubs of Mansfield. The other four speakers will appear on successive Monday nights.

The speaker asserted that the peace of the world lies in democracy, pointing out that in all the strife that has followed the World war not an act of oppression has been committed by a democracy, but that all of it can be laid at the door of the dictators and totalitarian states.

"The tragedy of Czechoslovakia is not alone that these freedom-loving people laid down their arms and acquiesed to the demands of an empire builder, but that their hopes of peace for Central Europe have been futile, that their sacrifice meant only a step nearer war instead of peace; that the Munich pact was not a treaty of peace, but an instrument of war, the first step toward a bigger and better World war."

Without bitterness or rancor Dr. Deutsch traced the history of the Czechs and the Slovaks, their centuries of working for freedom and a political and economic unity of their own.

He denied that Czechoslovakia

London Protests as Jap Bombs Hit British Colony

One Killed, Dozen Injured By Sudden Aerial Attack On Crown Possession.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Great Britain today sent a "vigorous protest" to Japan over the bombing of Hongkong territory by Japanese planes.

The foreign office radioed Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, to protest immediately to the Japanese government in the strongest terms.

Dispatches from Hongkong said a railroad station inside the crown colony border was bombed by Japanese planes. A British Indian policeman was killed and about a dozen other persons were injured.

Seeks Early Reply.

Officials said Sir Robert also was directed to press for a reply to the British note of Jan. 14 asking clarification of Japanese intentions toward western powers in regard to maintenance of an open door to trade in China. (The United States on Dec. 31 and France on Jan. 19 made similar representations to Japan.)

Britain long has disputed Japan's apparent intention to restrict foreign commerce in China and Manchoukuo and form these two countries into a single, virtually closed economic bloc with Japan.

The British government also was understood to have regretted Tokyo's delay in explaining fully Japanese intentions with regards to the Island of Hainan, off the French Indo-China coast, where Japanese troops landed Feb. 10.

Britain backed France in a vigorous inquiry into the Japanese action at Hainan. The United States also made an inquiry. The three western powers were told that the occupation of the island was a matter of military expediency.

Fear Settlement Attack.

Declarations in the Japanese diet were interpreted as indication the Japanese army might march into Shanghai's International Settlement as the result of assassinations of Japanese sympathizers there.

An eminent Chinese, Li Kuo-Chieh, said to have had connections with the Japanese-sponsored Nanking reform government, was killed there today. Tcheng Loh, foreign minister of the Nanking regime, was slain in another part of Shanghai yesterday.

Both Chinese and Japanese, meanwhile, claimed victory in a huge aerial battle over Lanchow, important Chinese military base in northwest China. A Japanese communique said 36 Russian-made planes were shot down in the engagement but Chinese said only

Cleveland's Child Bride Joins Mate; Police Relent

Parents 'Bless' Marriage of Ninth Grade Girl and WPA Worker Husband, So Jail Doors Swing Open.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—The stamp of parental approval today allowed a 15-year-old bride to leave the confines of the juvenile detention home and join her 18-year-old husband.

The story of the meeting and marriage of Audrey Bartholomew Baker, a ninth grade junior high school pupil, and her husband, Shirley, a WPA worker, is a model of rapid-fire romance.

The affair started on Valentine's day, just one week ago, when "Chuckie," Audrey's boy friend of the moment, dropped himself out of the picture by introducing Shirley to Audrey.

Borrow Automobile.

As Audrey phrased it, "after that it was all over with Chuckie." The next night, Feb. 15, the couple borrowed an automobile and drove to Cumberland, Md. They found that there is a three-day waiting period there, so they stayed at the home of relatives until they got the license.

The couple, now Mr. and Mrs. Baker, returned to the apartment of the groom's father in Cleveland to settle down, but Policewoman Cecelia Heidinger interrupted that part of the program, by taking the bride to the detention home.

Policewoman Heidinger then interviewed Shirley's father, Edward, and Audrey's parents, Howard and Nellie Bartholomew. Finding that the girl's father was confined to a hospital with tuberculosis, the mother on relief and the girl's brother, Cletus, unemployed, authorities decided that the bride would be just as well off with a husband who is employed.

KING GUARDED

1,000 Police Stand by While George VI Launches Ship.

NEWCASTLE, England—(AP)—King George VI, guarded by more than 1,000 police, today launched Britain's great new battleship which bears the name of his father, King George V.

"May God bless her and those who serve in her," the king cried as the 35,000-ton ship shot down the ways into the River Tyne, the first battleship Britain has launched in more than 13 years and the first of a new group of monster vessels that will total at least nine.

As the king and Queen Elizabeth came to Newcastle for the ceremony they were under the strictest guard ever given a modern British monarch in his own country.

Medina Lawmaker Says Farmers Will Kill Measure.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— United opposition of the Grange and farmers will prevent passage of a bill designed to allow quail hunting on a restricted basis, Rep. P. N. Yoder (R-Medina) said today as he indicated he would ask the house conservation committee to kill the bill he introduced.

"The only groups supporting the bill," Yoder said, are sportsmen's organizations. The Grange, farmers and women's clubs are fighting the bill.

"Farmers have written me and said they would close their land to any type of hunting if quail shooting is legalized in any form."

BRENDA HAS TO WAIT FOR CASH

Heiress to Millions to Mark Time For Another Year.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Dark-eyed Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, 17-year-old heiress to the millions of her father and paternal grandmother, will have to wait at least another year before she comes into full control of the aforesaid millions.

That was made certain as Surrogate James A. Foley renewed for another one year period, the guardianship of Brenda's mother, Mrs. Brenda Frazier Watriss over "the person and estate" of the pretty debutante.

The guardianship has been renewed annually for the past four years but it had been expected that this year the legal obstruction which bars Brenda from her cash might be dissolved.

2 NAVY FLIERS DIE; 'CHUTES' SAVE 6 OTHERS

Only Four of Dozen Planes Land Safely After 5-Hour Search for Landing.

GASOLINE TANKS DRY

'Pea Soup' Mist, Developing in Night Maneuvers, Blamed for Florida Tragedy.

(By United Press)

PENSACOLA, Fla.—Eight naval training planes, trapped in the air for five hours by a "pea-soup" ground fog, crashed last night over an area of several hundred square miles after exhausting their gasoline in vainly hunting unobscured landing places. Two pilots were killed.

Four planes of the original flight of 12 which took off from the Pensacola training station shortly after dusk for night practice maneuvers, landed safely.

Pilots of six of the eight planes which crashed parachuted safely to earth.

Plane Crashes, Burns.

Lieut. G. F. Presser of the Brazilian navy, a "courtesy student" at the naval station, attempted to "ride his plane" to earth through the fog, and was killed when the machine crashed and burned.

Lieut. Norman M. Ostergren also died. His body was found near the wreckage of his plane near McDavid, Fla., 30 miles north of here. His plane had burned.

With the earth completely fog-obscured and their motors sputtering as they drained the final drops of gasoline, six of the pilots went overside with parachutes. Except for minor bruises, they were uninjured. They were:

Cadet R. F. Chalmers, who parachuted down at Corry field here;

Lieut. E. G. Osborne, who abandoned ship near McDavid;

Lieut. Alfonso C. T. Horta—another Brazilian navy man—who parachuted down at Corry field here;

Lieut. Thomas P. Cumming, who abandoned ship near Myrtle Grove, three miles east of here;

Drops In River.

Cadet C. W. Harbert, whose parachute dropped him in a river near the Florida-Alabama border;

Lieut. R. E. Harmer, who bailed out over the naval air station.

Three planes of the flight of 12 finally found a "hole" near Atmore, Ala., and came down safely. They were piloted by Lieut. J. H. Brett, Cadet J. E. W. Whitener and Lieut. W. G. Jackson.

Cadet A. C. McDonough set his ship down safely at Greenville, Ala.

Navy men estimated the value of each of the old-type Boeing training planes at $18,000, setting the total loss of the eight planes which crashed at about $144,000.

Winter Back, Ices Streets To Make Driving Perilous

Winter played a return engagement in Mansfield today, leaving the streets and highways snow-covered and slippery and dropping the mercury to 23 degrees.

The weatherman said, however, that the cold spell will not last long and prediced rising temperatures by Wednesday. There will be light snow and slightly lower temperatures tonight.

A number of minor automobile collisions were reported in the city area this morning as breaks were virtually useless on the treacherous streets. About one inch of snow which began falling early today packed on the streets and highways, during the morning, but by noon the snow had turned to slush. Authorities had no report of injuries in the crashes.

The temperature fell to 23 degrees this morning from a high of 38 yesterday, and by noon today it had climbed back to 27 degrees. Average reading for the past 24 hours was 30.5 degrees, exactly normal.

Living Too Fast Chief Foe of Health, Beauty, Women Told

Constant tension, the continual effort to "keep up with the parade," living too fast and too hard, are arch enemies of health and beauty, Dr. Alexander Davis, health lecturer, told an audience yesterday at the opening session of The News • Journal's "charm" school.

Americanitis (his word for high blood pressure), overworked hearts and the inability to relax are the chief causes of high death rates among young and middle aged persons.

One's mental attitude, he told his audience, has much to do with retaining youthfulness or growing old early in life.

"You don't begin to grow old until you think you are," he said. "Too many persons around 40 years begin to think that they see old age symptoms in themselves, and the more they think about it the older they get. But to retain a youthful consciousness is a sure way of actually retaining your youth from a physical and mental standpoint."

Poise, he said, is one of the major factors of health and charm. No person who "flies off the handle" has charm, he pointed out, for poise and charm are inseparable.

Women who over-indulge in nicotine, caeffeine and alcohol are pretty apt to find sharp, angular lines in their faces in a few years, Dr. Davis asserted.

In summing up his formula for health and beauty, Dr. Davis listed the fundamentals in their proper sequence of importance: first, proper and nutritious foods (a great many salads, fruits and vegetables); proper elimination; sensible exercise; a youthful mental attitude; physical and mental poise; periods of complete relaxation during the day, and leading a sanely balanced life.

Today Dr. Davis talks to women only from 2 to 4 p. m. at Senior High school on "New Scientific Truths Women Should Know."

His final lecture will be given Wednesday afternoon and will be open to the general public.

ASSAIL JEWS, ROOSEVELT AT BIG GATHERING

Speakers Blast at Cabinet Members; Storm Troopers Rush Objectors.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—In a Nazi demonstration that filled vast Madison Square Garden, leaders of the German-American bund stood last night under the sign of the swastika to denounce "International Jewry," some members of the Roosevelt cabinet, and any American alliance with European democracies.

While uniformed storm troopers marched intermittently inside the Garden—which an official estimated held 20,000 — a moving throng of anti-Nazis, theatergoers and the merely curious, milled about in the streets outside.

About 1,500 police reserves stood guard over the area, while violence spurted up inside the garden and out.

As Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the bund, was concluding a peroration against Jews, Isadore Greenbaum, a slight, 26-year-old hotel worker, leaped upon the great stage and ran toward the speaker.

Rush To Stage.

Instantly, a dozen or more storm troopers set upon him, knocking him down and beating him as he held his head in his arms, his black wild hair flying.

A squad of police pushed the storm troopers aside, picked him from the floor of the platform, and, holding him high above their heads, ran to an exit. Most of his clothing was torn from his body.

Later, he was booked for disorderly conduct and held in $100 bail.

Outside the garden, 13 persons altogether were arrested in a series of fights involving the police—who refused permission of anti-Nazis to picket the garden—and the followers and opponents of Nazism.

The first disturbance at the meeting involved Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, who had shouted "nonsense" during a speech by G. W. Kunze, the bund's national publicity director.

Amid shouts of "sit down" and "throw her out," a grey-skirted storm trooper and two policemen started to hustle her from the building. Heywood Broun, another columnist, ran to her rescue, telling the police her identity. She was allowed to remain upon her insistence that "American free speech" gave her the right to express disagreement with any speaker.

Mention of the names of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit; Rep. Martin Dies (D-Tex), chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities; Senators Borah and Nye, brought applause, while hisses arose in great roars when speakers called the name of Secretaries Perkins, Hopkins, Morgenthau, Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter and Attorney General Murphy.

There was much criticism of Roosevelt and administration activities, but the most direct reference to the president himself was made by Kunze, who called the executive "Rosenfeld." There were boos and derisive shouts from the crowd.

In the first parade of the storm troop color guard the swastika was carried first, American flags bobbing on behind.

'Kidnaped' Girl, 8, On Way Home; 'Abductor' Jailed

PASADENA—(INS)—Eight-year-old Anne Louise Sweitzer, taken from her home by a 40-year-old gardener and church organist, was being speedily returned to the waiting arms of her mother and father today from El Centro, Cal.

The little girl and the gardener, Townsend Davis, were apprehended late yesterday as they were about to cross the California-Arizona border at Winterhaven and taken to El Centro, almost 36 hours after the girl disappeared from her Pasadena home.

Although apparently unharmed, Imperial county officers said that the girl had been molested by Davis when they spent Sunday night in a tourist camp.

Deputy Sheriff John Rousen who placed the gaunt, thinfaced gardener under arrest, said that Davis declared he had no intention of holding the girl for ransom, but that he took her because "he felt sorry for her because of her home treatment."

House Debates Proposal for Guam Air Base

Up and Down THE STREET

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools thinks the board of education could save a lot of time if it held all of its meetings before dinner in the evening as it did last night. "The hungrier the members are, the faster they work, and we might finish our sessions in record time if the men always had a meal waiting for them when they got through," Miller said. Last night's meeting, held early because of the lecture by Dr. Karl W. Deutsch at Senior high school, was completed in little more than an hour.

This may sound like something that should be told on April 1, or possibly on March 17, but the owners vouch for its truthfulness. About a week ago a litter of thoroughbred Spitz puppies arrived at the Wilmore kennels on Chester avenue, and one of the pups was green. Not a greenish white but the tint of pale green that hostesses use for their "pastel appointments." Mrs. William Hunter, who operates the kennels waited for several days believing the puppy's fur would take on its normal color, but so far it is still a pale green purp, with the color going all the way down to the pinkish-white skin.

Mrs. Avice Reed, shorthand teacher at Senior High school, thought that a lecture on health and beauty would be helpful to her classes yesterday afternoon, and dismissed students so they could attend the first session of The News-Journal's "charm" school which was conducted in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Reed said she thought health and poise were as important to a business career as shorthand.

MOTHER DIES

Shiloh Woman, Parent of Four Mansfielders, Stricken.

Mrs. Charles Hamman, 62, of Shiloh, mother of four Mansfield residents, died at the Willard Municipal hospital last night after an illness of eight months. She had been in the hospital for the past month.

Mrs. Hamman was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Croydon Mitchell and was born in Bloominggrove township near here. She had been an active member of the Shiloh Methodist church and the Ladies Aid society as well as the Eastern Star for many years. She was also a member of the Rome Country club.

Besides her husband, she is survived by five sons and two daughters: Albert, Lester and Hubert Hamman and Mrs. Roscoe Shatzer, all of Mansfield; Dewey Hamman, near Shiloh and Mrs. Schuyler Zackman, R. F. D. Shelby; a step-mother, Mrs. Margaret Mitchell of Crestline, and eight grandchildren.

The body will remain at the McQuate funeral home at Shiloh until 1 p. m. Thursday. At 2:30 p. m. funeral services will be held at the Shiloh Methodist church, with Rev. J. C. Campbell officiating. Burial will be in the Shiloh cemetery.

SUCCUMBS AT SISTER'S HOME

Albert Sawhill, 69, Had Resided In City For 20 Years.

Albert Sawhill, 69, died Monday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Margaret Kinnan, 405 West Fourth street, following an illness of three weeks.

Mr. Sawhill had been a resident of Richland county for the past 20 years. He was a member of the United Presbyterian church, the Junior Order of Modern Mechanics and Daughters of America.

Surviving are a brother, William of Freeport, Ill., and his sister, Mrs. Kinnan. The body was taken to the Cannon funeral home at Crooksville, O., where services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in the Crooksville cemetery.

"We fought for our freedom on the side of the Allies in the World war," he pointed out, "just as we had fought for it centuries before, and we paid for it by the men we left lying on the eastern front. When Czechoslovakia was created we were merely an old freedom-loving country coming back into our own."

He told how the small nation, under its two great presidents, had decreased the standing army and built schools and cultural institutions. In 14 years, he said they had built 1,381 new elementary schools.

With the Munich pact, however, the little democracy came under the economical stranglehold of the Hitler empire, and today, although it is theoretically a "free country," Germany can, within a few hours, cut off all communication and transportation, as well as water, light and power facilities of Czechoslovakia, he told his audience. Hitler can, and will, he believes, take the remainder of the small democracy when he wants it—unless the democracies of the world stop his march across Europe.

"Although Germany and its new territories is over-armed and under-fed, Hitler will not hesitate to enter another war," Dr. Deutsch said, pointing out that the dictator will use, and is now using, three lines of aggression: first, the creation and political use of German minorities—many of which are being built up in South American countries and North American cities; second, anti-Semitism as a foreign policy designed to create internal strife, and third, barter trade which destroys world trade.

The German-American bunds, he said in answer to a question, are the well-planned beginnings of German minorities in America, and Hitler's Naziism and policy of anti-Semitism are being spread in this country, in some instances by outstanding Americans.

In the discussion which followed the lecture, Dr. Deutsch asserted that the future of Spain was not in the hands of Gen. Franco, but rather lies with Hitler, and he regards it as problematical that Hitler may or may not grant Spanish autonomy.

"Hitler has spent too much time and money and men in Spain to withdraw and leave the Spanish people to decide their own destiny," he said.

Last night's audience was made up of a cross section of the city's population. Dr. Deutsch was introduced by R. D. Iden, president of Rotary club.

The second lecture of the University-Rotary institute will be on "The Good Neighbor Policy in the Americas," given by Prof. Isaac J. Cox, of Northwestern university.

WILLIS' SECRETARY DIES

IRONTON, O.—(AP)—Homer M. Edwards, secretary to the late Gov. Frank B. Willis, died yesterday at the age of 55. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

DAVEY BACK IN POLITICAL RING, BLASTS 'BRICKER THE RIPPER'

(By Associated Press)

MT. VERNON — Exactly six weeks out of the governor's chair, Martin L. Davey was back in the political arena with a bristling attack on the administrative acts of his Republican successor, Gov. John W. Bricker, to whom he repeatedly referred as "Bricker the Ripper."

Addressing a Jeffersonian banquet last night, Davey assailed as "unscrupulous procedure" Bricker's move to gain control of the state unemployment compensation system and its 3,000 jobs through "ripper" legislation and charged that he "has been trying to brow-beat the civil service commission," and "drive them out" the same way.

Davey also charged Bricker to "tell the whole truth" about present administration charges that excessive prices were paid for state institutional supplies by Davey officials.

"Of course, you can buy milk cheaper if they take out part of the cream," Davey said without elaboration.

"He (Bricker) already sees himself in the White House and his vision is so distorted that he can not think straight on state matters," said Davey in accusing his successor of using dictatorial methods.

Davey said he was duty-bound to fill a vacancy on the unemployment benefit body but that Bricker became angry "because he wanted to grab the jobs for himself," adding:

"He was guilty of unscrupulous procedure to get control of these jobs."

Davey claimed that job appointments now were dominated by Republican state headquarters without regard for civil service laws, which he asserted were followed during his administration.

The former governor, saying he was not a candidate "for anything," declared that his speech was motivated by "Bricker's mean and vindictive attitude since he has been governor . . . although I tried to make his entry into the governorship as pleasant as possible."

2 WIN PAROLES

Mansfield, Shelby Men to Be Released From Ohio Pen.

The Ohio penitentiary gates will swing open June 1 for Hiram Littleton, Shelby, and Jesse Snyder, Mansfield, who have been in the institution since last March.

The men were among 53 prisoners who were granted paroles today by the state parole board. Thirteen others received conditional releases to go to other states, and the board continued 128 cases.

Littleton was sentenced March 7 last year for arson after he admitted he set fire to the Shelby jail while he was a prisoner there. He will serve 15 months of a one-to-three-year term.

Snyder was given a one-to-seven-year sentence on a conviction for grand larceny.

PITTMAN MAKES RADIO PLEA FOR DEFENSE PLAN

Warns Dictator Governments Americans Won't Stand by in Speaking of Threats.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The house reached the crux of the controversy over the administration's $552,000,000 defense program today—a recommendation for a seaplane base on the Pacific Island of Guam.

The Guam proposal, included in a $53,800,000 bill for improved naval air bases, accentuated questions of foreign policy in the orient at a time of intense argument over American relations with Europe.

Senator Pittman (D-Nev), chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, emphasized European war threats last night in pleading for strong national defense.

While the American people hate war, he said in a radio address, "they are not afraid to die for Christianity, morality, justice and liberty. Many a mistake has been made in past history by not letting dictator governments know this on the start."

Approval By Tomorrow.

Administration leaders expected approval by tomorrow night of the air base bill, which was on the house calendar directly behind bills to extend the lending powers of the export-import bank and affiliated agencies.

Controversy over establishing a seaplane base at Guam developed after a naval board had reported that fortification of the island would greatly strengthen defense of the Hawaiian islands, the Panama Canal and the western coast of North America.

Critics said the island was in a region of the Pacific dotted with Japanese mandated islands and that fortification would be considered a slap at Japan.

Subsequently President Roosevelt expressed approval of harbor improvements for a seaplane base buts aid those did not constitute fortifications.

Another segment of the defense program, which the house already has approved, probably will come before the senate next week. It is the $376,000,000 army expansion measure.

It was uncertain whether members of the senate military committee would attempt to write a provision into the bill restricting the president's powers in making military planes available for sale to foreign powers.

BACK ON STAND

Dodge Denies He 'Protected' Hines in Rackets Cases.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Unequivocal denial that he was politically subservient to Tammany District Leader James J. Hines or a protector of the New York policy racket was voiced today by former District Attorney William C. Dodge at Hines' retrial on charges that the district leader was the paid "fixer" for the policy syndicate headed by the late Arthur ("Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer.

Dodge resumed the witness stand for direct examination by Hines' chief counsel, Lloyd P. Stryker, this morning. He was expected to undergo cross-examination by Dewey later today.

In general, Dodge's testimony was a direct refutation of statements at Hines' first trial by the late George Weinberg, former henchman of Dutch Schultz who turned state's evidence.

Surviving are two sons and three daughters: Clara, Gertrude and Earl Porter of Big Prairie; John, of Wooster, and Mrs. Hazel Swartz of Canton; and a foster daughter, Mrs. Fern Wachtel Gilmore of Long Beach, Cal.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Newkirk Methodist church, with Rev. O. E. Haueter of Shreve officiating. Burial will be in the Newkirk cemetery.

WOLF RITES WEDNESDAY

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Olivesburg Methodist church for William Wolf, 60, of Jackson township, who died Monday at General hospital following an illness of several weeks. Rev. F. M. Dickey of Pavonia will officiate and burial will be in the Olivesburg cemetery. The body will remain at the Wappner funeral home until time of services.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Italian Journalism, In Main, Pepless Mediocrity Under Mussolini Regime

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—The softest job in all journalism is that of Virginio Gayda, the official commentator of the Journal of Italy in Rome, who enjoys the rank and emoluments of first interpretator and commentator in the Fascist press, but doesn't have to do a lick of work at his job beyond whipping into popular journalese the ideas which are handed to him by the boss.

Gayda's job is better, from the strictly material standpoint, than that of the anonymous American professional editorial writer who angles an argument to conform to office policy.

* * *

Because Mussolini has made a public figure and lower-case dignitary of a hack who otherwise might never have risen above the mass of crummy moochers, typical of Italian journalism, who sit around marble tables in sloppy overcoats with grease on their collars, gnawing horse-meat sausage and chirping for their supper.

They are, as a tribe, the most contemptible menials of the whole breed of Fascist parasites who live by the nod, for Italian journalism, when free, was opinionated and daring, and most of those who took service with the Duce sold their manhood for job security, pensions and other bribes.

They were, in the main, the spiritless mediocrities, and such they remain under Fascism.

Mussolini himself having taken the measure of their character in fiat money of his own issue, naturally loathes them. He has a right to his contempt, for, when he was a journalist himself, he fought authority, sneered in the face of poverty and risk and couldn't be bought.

* * *

He knows their price, and he knows that, having sold out to him, they would sell out again to Balbo or any other promising rival who might come riding into Rome in a spirited Pullman, as he himself did.

He has far greater respect for men who were beaten to death by his gangs for their principles than for party journalists who joined him for money that he created by telling the printer to turn the crank.

The professional American editorial writer is selfish and impersonal, and, though he may take artistic pride in his wordage, may still detest the sentiments which he has written for hire, and disown compliments to them. He still may refuse to dine with the boss.

Gayda, however, not only writes to orders but accepts the paltry celebrity in which it is necessary to invest him for reasons of diplomatic evasion.

The Nazis have nothing quite like him, and the Russians, who did have a Gayda, found it necessary to liquidate theirs last year, whether by shooting or rustication to Siberia, one does not know.

* * *

Our own New Deal has several stout kiver-to-kiver men, but they are not Gaydas, being New Dealers by conviction and financially independent of the regime, although their copy, at times, bears a resemblance to Gayda's devotion to propositions which they themselves prove wrong by every argument offered to prove them right.

In reading Gayda's copy it is advisable to ignore the man's name and regard it as the policy of the Fascist government toward this country. He is insulting, bellicose, and, just now, through him, Mussolini is attempting to separate the American people from their government, as Woodrow Wilson tried to distinguish between the German people and the kaiser.

It may be preliminary to an attempt to free us. Anyway, it imparts special interest to the activities of Italian organizations in this country, such as the recent first annual dinner of Benito Mussolini lodge No. 1768 of the Sons of Italy at Bethlehem, Pa., at which one of the speakers was the Hon. Frank Trigiani, county supervisor of the WPA, in charge of citizenship and naturalization.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Personal to Mr. George M. Cohan, New York City: "Come on out. The red-white-and-blue is on the wave all over town. Hollywood's doing the best it can—but needs an expert flag-waver, and you're it!"

It's true. Here in the land of the blue sky and red and white lights, the stars and stripes are represented no longer merely by Cagney, Bogart et als, in convict uniforms. The one and only flag is being waved in Big Way.

It's not only in those patriotic "shorts" the Warner plant has been putting out. There the shorts are getting longer—and other significant additions have been made. To my surprise I went on a sound stage today and found Michael Curtiz—no less!—directing Claude Rains—no less!—in a "long short" of four reels called "Sons of Liberty." This is the story of Haym Solomon, the Jewish patriot whose funds saved the American Revolution.

The FitzPatrick travelogs in color, for years devoted to exploring beauties across the oceans, are coming home to roost at least temporarily. They'll see America last, perhaps—but let movie audiences see it first, as it should be seen on the screen. The series of 13 begins with a tour through California.

* * *

The interest in Abraham Lincoln—attributable of course to Raymond Massey's Broadway hit—can come under the flag-waving department also. Darryl Zanuck has Henry Fonda readying himself for a study of the youthful Abe.

The dictators, however, are geting theirs generously in the "expose" features such as "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," which was projected even before Will Hays said the movies could say what they pleased about world affairs and be an active force. Result of that pronunciamento or otherwise, another script—"They Made Her a Spy"—has gone into the re-write process. Instead of vaguely hinting at a spy ring operating at Washington, D. C., the new version rather strongly indicates the nationality of the spies, although it still does not name names.

* * *

The name-naming apparently is left to "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," a picture which has gone into work at last under conditions of secrecy that might do justice to a first-class espionage department.

No scripts were passed around, as is usual with new pictures. The director, Anatole Litvak, would say nothing. The word is that the film, definitely in the higher-budget bracket, will take material from Leon G. Turrou's book, "Nazi Spies in America," but will go farther and stronger. The cast includes so far Edward G. Robinson, Francis Lederer (remember his frantic sponsorship of "World Peace?") and Lya Lys.

And instead of the usual foreword assuring the fictional nature of the film, this one will insist that events depicted, and the characters, are at work in the United Ctates today. (That's all I know now—if my operative GX½ uncovers anything I'll let you know.)

"The American Day" — the Fredric March-Florence Eldridge Broadway hit—is a sure film subject, according to the reports, and "Let Freedom Ring," the Nelson Eddy show, has a patriotic flavor.

So all we need now is George M. Cohan to join in—I beg your pardon!—LEAD the chorus!

CHILD, 3, DIES AFTER ILLNESS

Rites for Richard Eugene Robinson to Be Held Thursday.

Richard Eugene Robinson, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, 265 East Second street, died Monday evening at General hospital following an illness of three weeks.

The child was born July 20, 1935, in Mansfield. Surviving besides the parents are a brother, Ernest, and a sister, Dorothy, at home, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Robinson, of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday at the Geiger funeral home with Rev. A. J. McCreary, pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body will be removed to the family home Wednesday morning and will remain there until Thursday noon. Friends may call at the home.

Miss Feigenbaum Becomes Bride In Early Ceremony

The parsonage of St. Peter's Catholic church was the scene this morning of the quiet marriage of Miss Mary Evelyn Feigenbaum and Byron E. Caldwell. Rev. John Flynn conducted the ceremony at 9:15 a. m. in the presence of the families and a few friends.

Miss Feigenbaum, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a teale green suit with Japanica accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses with Japanica and chartuese ribbons. She was attended by Mrs. Fred Grasser who wore a wedgewood tailored dress with black and gold accessories. Darl R. Caldwell, Marion, attended the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the bride's home, 190 Wood street, to relatives and friends. The former Miss Feigenbaum, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Feigenbaum, was employed at the Colby and Earick company. She was a graduate of St. Peter's high school, and is a member of Alpha Pi Sigma sorority.

For the service Mrs. Feigenbaum wore royal blue with a corsage of yellow roses.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Caldwell wore a light and dark green tweed coat with grey fox fur and Japanica accessories. The couple will return to Mansfield the end of this week, and will be at home to friends at 219 West Third street.

Mr. Caldwell, who is employed at the City Loan company, is from Marion. He attended Harding high school there.

Mrs. Remy Hostess to St. Luke's Class

Mrs. Neil Remy was hostess for a meeting of the Daughters of Ruth class of St. Luke's Lutheran church yesterday evening at her home on West Third street. Miss Clara Cassel served as the associate hostess. Miss Mary Beilstein read the devotions.

During the evening's program, Miss Clara Miller gave a paper entitled "Science Creates New Plants." Later the hostesses served refreshments to the group. Mrs. Earl Schuler will entertain the class on March 20 at her home, 151 North Walnut street, with Mrs. Andrew Herring assisting.

After the business meeting conducted by the president, Lawrence Bowser, games and contests were enjoyed by the group. Refreshments in keeping with the Valentine season were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirkwood entertained members of the Pollock Sunday school class at their home recently.

Miss Juanita Burns is recovering at Samaritan hospital in Ashland from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. Watts Gives Paper At Study Group Session

"The Canon Invention and Fugue" was the title of the paper given by Mrs. Paul Watts last night before members of the study group of the Music Study club. Illustrative examples from Schumann and Bach were played by Margaret Hall. Mrs. Hall also served as hostess at the Women's Club.

For the next regular meeting of the club, Mrs. F. A. Hoffman will be chairman. A program of folk music will be offered at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 8 p. m. March 6. Those performing will be Mrs. E. D. Gibson, Mrs. Fred Cahall, Miss Margery Ader, Miss Thelma Reed and John Grabler assisted by students from the Marguerite Speas dance studio. Miss Beatrice Colvin is the hostess.

HONOR RECENT BRIDE AT EVENING SHOWER

Mrs. James Gills, Sr., Mrs. Vaughn Gustin Entertain 16 Guests at Bridge Party; Miscellaneous Gifts Presented.

A RECENT BRIDE, the former Miss Viola Fulmer, was honored by her mother-in-law, Mrs. James Gills, sr., and Mrs. Vaughn Gustin at the Gills home, 450 West Fourth street, last night. Mrs. James Gills, jr., was the guest of honor at the miscellaneous shower party at which 16 guests were entertained.

Three tables of bridge were in progress during the evening, and prizes were won by Miss Helen Sheppard and Miss Florence Beer. A gift of silver was presented by the hostesses, and the guests gave the honoree a shower of gifts.

Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with bowls of cut flowers and individual pink and white candles. Another party is being planned this week for the recent bride by Mrs. Peter Creamer, jr., West Fifth street. The affair will be a "white shower."

Guest Speaks of Contributions of Women to Fiction

Luncheon was served to members of three Mansfield study clubs yesterday afternoon at the Women's Club when Dr. J. H. King, head of the English department at Denison university, spoke on "Women's Contribution to American Fiction." By dividing writers according to periods the speaker emphasized the outstanding trend, and the most important writer of the past centuries.

He told of the early "hero-villain" type of fiction written by Mrs. Ralston. Among those he mentioned as outstanding for their period were Harriett Beecher Stowe, Louisa May Alcott, Jean Stratton Porter, Kate Douglas Wiggens, Pearl Buck, Edith Wharton, Ellen Glasgow, Laura Krey, Margaret Rawlings and Willa Cather.

Small tables were used for serving luncheon, and spring flowers decorated the tables. Mrs. E. R. Hartman served as hostess for the Travelers club, Mrs. Edwin Mansfield received for the Round Table club, and the Victorian hostesses were Dr. Adda Liffring, and Mrs. Fred L. Wolf.

Mrs. H. T. Siegenthaler will receive March 13 at the Club for Victorian members. The Travelers next session is a luncheon at 1 p. m. followed by a business meeting with Mrs. W. L. Miller receiving, and the next session of the Round Table club will be March 6 with Mrs. William Black entertaining at the Club.

The two honored guests celebrate birthdays this month. Mrs. Eldon Sharrock won the game prize. Red, white and blue appointments were used for the serving of luncheon, and the next meeting will be held with Mrs. Williams, 106 Highland avenue.

Make Final Plans For Guest Party At M. E. Church

Following the brief business meeting of the Grace guild of the First M. E. church conducted by Mrs. Eugene Linham a program was presented with Miss Margaret Kochheiser in charge. During the session, which was held at the home of Mrs. Wayne Ward, 31 Burnese avenue, final plans were made for the guest party and covered-dish dinner of the guild to be held March 20 at the church.

Mrs. Kenneth Stonebrook gave "The Importance of Little Things" as the devotional topic, and Miss Kochheiser presented Mrs. J. R. Turner, a guest, who gave an original reading on the life of Washington. She was followed by Mrs. Roy Beck who reviewed a chapter of the study book "The Ministry of Healing in India."

During the social hour Mrs. E. G. Corwin conducted a quiz bee, and the hostess served refreshments. She was assisted by Mrs. Helen Bush, Mrs. Dana Allen, Mrs. Louis Wissinger and Miss Mary Jane Early.

Book Reviewed Before Monday Study Clubbers

There were 20 present at the Towne House last night for the meeting of the Monday Study club when Mrs. Harrison Alvord, assisted by Mrs. Frank Daniels entertained. "These Are the Virgin Islands" by Hamilton Cockran was the title of the book reviewed by Mrs. W. E. Slabaugh.

In her talk she told about the islands being headquarters for pirates, the population and the magic rites. The March 6 meeting is being omitted so that members may attend the lecture being sponsored by the University and Rotary clubs at the high school. The next meeting will be March 21 with Mrs. Russell Gimbel and Mrs. Dwight Weir as hostesses.

Has She Claim On Man?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
My husband, as I always considered him, and I decided to dispense with the marriage ceremony. We regarded our life together as binding as marriage, at least I did. Now, after nearly four years, we have separated. I am not working, have nothing saved, and am in a very poor state of health. Can my husband be made to contribute anything to my support, at least till I'm on my feet and am able to look after myself? MRS. A.

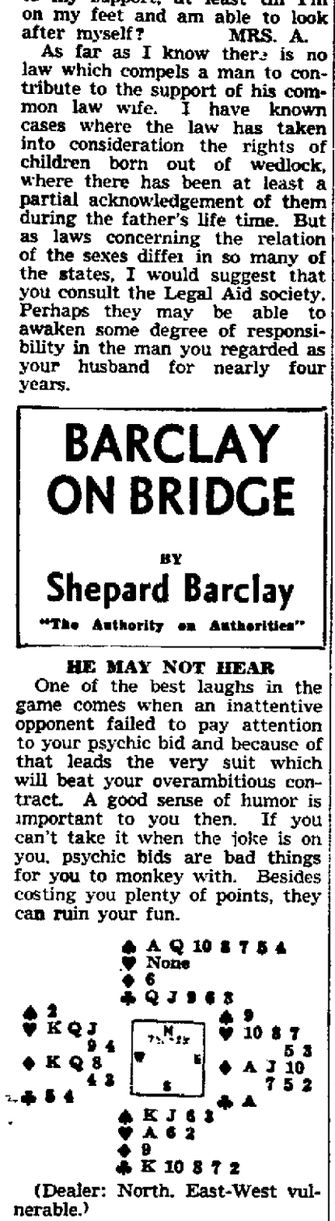
As far as I know there is no law which compels a man to contribute to the support of his common law wife. I have known cases where the law has taken into consideration the rights of children born out of wedlock, where there has been at least a partial acknowledgement of them during the father's life time. But as laws concerning the relation of the sexes differ in so many of the states, I would suggest that you consult the Legal Aid society. Perhaps they may be able to awaken some degree of responsibility in the man you regarded as your husband for nearly four years.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY
Shepard Barclay
"The Authority on Authorities"

HE MAY NOT HEAR

One of the best laughs in the game comes when an inattentive opponent failed to pay attention to your psychic bid and because of that leads the very suit which will beat your overambitious contract. A good sense of humor is important to you then. If you can't take it when the joke is on you, psychic bids are bad things for you to monkey with. Besides costing you plenty of points, they can ruin your fun.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

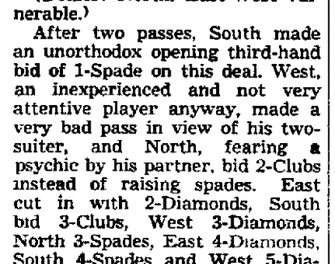
After two passes, South made an unorthodox opening third-hand bid of 1-Spade on this deal. West, an inexperienced and not very attentive player anyway, made a very bad pass in view of his two-suiter, and North, fearing a psychic by his partner, bid 2-Clubs instead of raising spades. East cut in with 2-Diamonds, South bid 3-Clubs, West 3-Diamonds, North 3-Spades, East 4-Diamonds, South 4-Spades and West 5-Diamonds.

North decided, after hearing his partner bid spades the second time, that there ought to be a slam in the hand, especially if he could prevent a diamond lead. So he called 6-Diamonds, which East of course doubled. When this reached North, he bid 6-Spades and East doubled. North thereupon redoubled. West led his diamond K and two tricks were made, beating the contract. Had he led a heart, as North wanted him to, the diamond 6 could have been discarded at once.

In the post mortem, North asked West if he hadn't heard the cue-bid of diamonds, and he said he didn't think about its showing a blank. He was then asked if he didn't realize East's double of the slam indicated that East wanted some lead other than the natural one, but West had never heard of that convention accepted by most advanced players. North is still being kidded by his friends about the hand.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If West bids 4-Hearts, North doubles, South 4-Spades. East doubles and West leads the club 8, how should South play for his contract?

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Feb. 22.

AN IMPORTANT day for surmounting old obstacles or breaking up long-standing congestions is forecast. This might be accelerated by the receipt of funds through a bequest, insurance, maturing investments or increased property values. There should be very satisfactory returns for industry and application. Fulfilled ambitions are indicated, with preferment and the solid support of elders assured.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of definite stability in the fortunes and possessions, through inheritance, insurance, sound investments or increased property values. Benefits and signs of preferment from superiors or elders with much promise for the fulfillment of long-cherished hopes and wishes, are indicated.

A child born on this day may be steady, industrious and trustworthy, qualities which may attract the support or good will of elders or superiors, by bequest, trust or property gift. It may have diversified talents, which will assure unusual initiative and a successful career.

A slice of sponge cake spread with jelly is a tempting dessert when served with a fruit sauce.

Have Pancakes Now

SHROVE TUESDAY pancakes serve to remind us of the esteem that this dish enjoys. It is an old dish, age-old, we might say. The first cave woman slapped a crude dough onto hot rocks for the first pancake. The latest bride does well to follow her example, and deal them off the arm, straight from the griddle. The pancake flourishes under so many guises. It goes French and turns into a "crepe" for dessert. We roll pancakes 'round savory stuffings, tuck secret flavors in their middles, top them with luscious "goos" which add power to the glory—and serve 'em for breakfast, luncheon, dinner, supper, as well as for special snacks!

Standard Griddle Cakes call for two cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons phosphate baking powder, one egg, tablespoon sugar, two tablespoons melted shortening, about one and one-half cups milk. Sift together dry ingredients, add egg beaten until light, and part of the milk. Work and beat to a smooth batter, add the remaining milk, sugar and shortening, and drop batter on griddle from spoon or pitcher. As soon as one side of cakes appears bubbly, turn, and bake on other side until delicate brown. Serve immediately with butter and syrup, and plenty of good hot coffee.

For Variations.

For pancake variations add one-half cup grated cheese to batter; serve with butter or with tomato sauce. Or add three-quarters cup finely chopped dates to batter and serve with honey. Stir one-half cup chopped nutmeats into batter with one-half cup chopped, seeded raisins and serve with powdered sugar.

For a delicious sauce over pancakes, combine one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons cornstarch and one-eighth teaspoon salt; add one cup boiling water gradually, then all one cup fresh orange juice and two teaspoons butter. Boil all together for five imnutes, stirring constantly. Serve hot. A nice idea is to make four large cakes. pile on each other, spreading jam or marmalade, jelly or preserved fruit in between; sprinkle with powdered sugar and cut like a layer cake, into wedges.

Banana Pancakes.

Banana Pancakes require one-half cup flour, two tablespoons sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one well beaten egg, one-half cup milk and two bananas. Sift dry ingredients. Add milk to beaten egg and stir slowly into flour mixture till smooth. Pour onto hot, well-greased griddle. Drop a few slices of banana on top of each cake. Brown on one side then on the other. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or garnish with jelly.

Always oil iron griddle lightly; have hot enough to make oil sizzle. Toy of pancake should be puffed up and full of bubbles and edges cooked before turning. Always serve as soon as possible, and never let cakes stand piled up. Never turn more than once. Pour batter onto griddle from end of tablespoon or lip of pitcher in which batter was mixed.

Choose Suitable Scent

By the perfumes they use, you shall know them. You can nose them into their separate classes, as it were. A lovely lady enters the room. Elegant dry goods she carries, her coiffure is the latest arrangement of wavelets and rolls, her complexion is honey and roses. But the scent she uses.

Here comes another. Clothing maybe not quite so beautiful, hairdress may be a hang over of last year's mode. But she carries with her a subtle, floretted fragrance that makes you take a deep breath. Your nostrils quiver with delight. Nice, oh, very nice! You keep edging near her to get another whiff.

That's what you must do. Find what you like, what suits you. Be fussy about it. Have the clerk pour a few drops on the back of your hand. Better than sniffing the bottle, this system of selection.

• • •

You may find delight in mimosa, gardenia, even the old fashioned violet, but the chances are you will be more intrigued by the lovely blends offered. They are mysterious and puzzling and because of that carry an appeal.

The outdoor girl, intent on physical exhileration and education, should not use exotic perfumes. Her type calls for woodsy scents in which balsam, sandalwood and all manner of sweet fragrances that come from growing green things are combined.

• • •

Before dressing for the festive occasion have a hot bath, give the flesh a vigorous friction with a coarse towel, spray perfume on neck, chest and arms; its fragrance will remain with you for hours. The cutaneous coating loves it, clings to it, and the warmth of the body, causing the alcohol to evaporate, brings out the most delicate floretted elements.

Tuck a tiny sachet in your hat crowns, if you wish. Place sachets in hat, glove and handkerchief boxes. In no time at all your wardrobe will be sweetly scented.

A beaten egg added to cream soup gives a good consistency and added nutrition. Beat the egg in a cup or small bowl. Add a small amount of hot soup. When it is well blended pour the mixture into the rest of the soup. Be careful to cook the mixture just long enough — since it will curdle if it is overcooked.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"It is something of which I rarely speak, this story of my boyhood and young manhood," he said. "The memories it evokes are so poignant, so harrowing, that I have spent a lifetime in trying to forget them.

"And yet, some of them were so beautiful," he went on, "in spite of their sadness, that I sometimes am glad my efforts to forget are futile. If I often awake even after all these years, with visions of past torments which bring cold drops to my forehead, there come in their wake memories of tender, beautiful moments which almost compensate me for the others."

"Even my childhood was tinged with tragedy," the deep voice went on, "although I was petted and indulged and given every advantage possessed by the highest born in the land. Indeed, the education and training of the royal princes themselves differed in no whit from mine.

"But often, on the face of the beautiful young mother whom I adored, there was a look of infinite sadness. I know now what I vaguely sensed then with my childish uneasiness, that she was sad even when we were together, even though she donned a mask of gayety, and filled my days with laughter and play which she shared. But once or twice, when she did not know that I was around, I had seen her pallid and racked with bitter sobbing. I had longed to rush to her and comfort her, but some instinct told me, unchildishly, that it would be kinder to leave her in ignorance that I knew of her secret unhappiness. And, of course, child-like, I forgot all about it when next she summoned me for a merry play time."

My own crust of cynicism began to melt a bit. This part of his story bore all the earmarks of truth and sincerity. I could actually see that unhappy, beautiful young mother, and her puzzled, lonely little son.

"My father I seldom saw," he said, and there was a subtle change in his voice which told me that whatever emotion he felt toward the man responsible for his existence was distinctly not affection. "He was tall, extremely handsome, dashing, and I admired him, as a small boy would admire a person who seemed to him a superman. But even my childish eyes saw clearly that he did not love me, that though he tried to be kind and say and do the right things, he barely tolerated me. But that he adored my mother as she did him, not even a child's instinct could doubt.

"There is no need to linger over these annals of my childhood," he went on. "My story is too long and will bore you unduly as it is. But I shall have to tell you of the terrible tragedy which ended my childhood and opened a new chapter in my life."

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

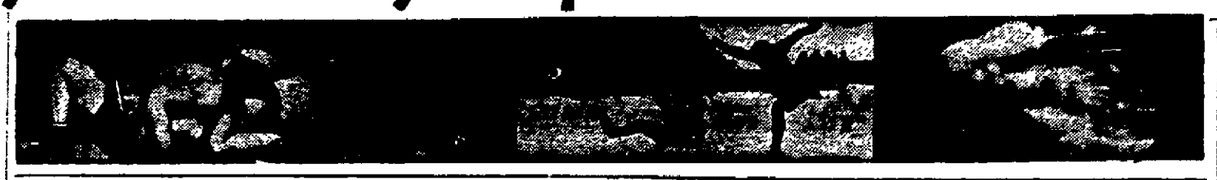
County Tourney Opens on Senior High Court Tonight



Madison Tackles Tigers

Drummer Boys and Adario Open Program.

TWO of the pre-season favorites in their respective leagues match baskets in the feature contest in the opening round of play in the Richland county basketball tournament on the Mansfield high gymnasium tonight.

The contest, which gets underway at 8:30 o'clock, throws the Richland county league championship Madison Rams against the high-scoring Plymouth high quintet. Plymouth, at present holding down second place in the Twin-Valley league race, a half game behind Shiloh, will meet the Drummer Boys at the end of the tourney to decide the league crown.

Opens at 7:30 p. m.

Tonight's program opens at 7:30 with a tussle between Shiloh and Adario. How tough the Adario club is remains a question as its season record is not available.

The Madison-Plymouth affair is expected to go a long way in decid one of the favorites for the tournament title. The Rams are favorites in the game, but Plymouth, with the high-scoring Leroy Ellison in the lineup, will be a dangerous opponent.

Ellison, one of the county's leading scorers, has dropped in points with ease all season, and Coach Al Fendrick hopes to set up a defense to halt his tactics.

The tournament will swing into full speed Wednesday night with a four-game program that should provide more than its share of thrills. Three of the county league's outstanding scorers will be on display.

They are Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford of Lucas, who share the league individual scoring championship, and Dick Roberts of Lexington.

In the Wednesday evening affairs, Lucas battles Lexington in the third contest at 8:30, and the winner will be marked as a leading contender for the title.

Butler Plays Wednesday.

Coch Bob Burgett's Butler Bulldogs make their initial appearance in the tourney in the opening tilt against Union while the defending championship Ontario high club engages Bellville in the final melee, and the winner of the Madison-Plymouth affray faces the victor of the Adario-Shiloh game in the second battle.

Bride Hits 571 In 'C' League

A 571 gave Bob Bride of Gimbel's Confectionary individual honors in the Commercial C league at the Meder alleys last night. His total enabled the team to take a pair of games from the Hecht & Casey club. The Confectionary's 257 was high team total for the evening.

ENTRIES OUT FOR RELAYS

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Entry blanks for the seventh annual Butler University Indoor relays March 28 were in the mails today for 129 colleges and universities, including Ohio State, Toledo, Ohio University and Miami.

Bryan Rules State Class A Basketball Domain Today

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Bryan of Williams county, away up in the northeast corner where Ohio borders on both Indiana and Michigan, ruled the Buckeye State's Class A high school basketball domain today after startling upsets last week toppled two of the three leaders out of the top spots.

The Bryan club, which rolled up 620 points to 438 for the foe in winning 16 of 17 games, is favored to win the sectional tourney at Napoleon for a berth in the state meet here March 16, 17 and 18.

Bryan already has defeated seven of the nine teams which will appear in the sectional, the others being Paulding which has dropped 14 games, and Perrysburg which has won but seven of 15.

Quakers Lose Lead.

New Philadelphia, last week's leader which rang up 16 in a row before losing to Dover, fell again before the lightly-regarded Martins Ferry squad, 28-25, surrendering the lead. Gallipolis' Blue Devils, winners of 13 in a row after losing the first contest to Columbus South, also fell last week, Ironton taking a 32-28 verdict after being pushed around by practically everyone in the southern half of the state.

Those results shoved Bryan into the lead, and McConnellsville into the runner-up spot with 15 victories and a lone defeat, the loss being at the hands of the alumni squad. Bryan racked up a 41-25 win over Napoleon for its 16th win last week, while McConnellsville smothered Caldwell under a 52-17 avalanche.

Dover, which with McConnellsville, New Philadelphia and Zanesville constitute the big threats in the eastern district meet at Dennison, won its 14th in 16 starts by trampling Wooster 50 to 27. The Dover squad has lost both games in overtime sessions, one to New Philly which it avenged last week, and the other to East high of Erie, Pa.

In Class B the minor leaguers staged the first half of their championships in 40 counties. Play in 46 others will start this week as the 900 teams continue the weeding-out process which will leave only 16 to play in the state meet. Only Cuyahoga and Lake counties do not hold tournaments.

Green township of Scioto county, leader of the Class B contingent with 22 straight, finished its pre-tourney chores with a 33-22 win over Otway. The townshippers scored 930 points to 441 for the opposition. South Charleston of Clark county grabbed a county tourney victory to run its string to 21, while Lore City of Guernsey county won three games to finish its pre-tourney race with 20, the first undefeated season in the school's history.

Upper Arlington, 1937 Class B champ, still is in the running with 14 straight victories, but Canal Fulton, 1938 titleholder, has dropped three of 16 games and faces Hartville, undefeated in 21 contests, in the Stark county meet Friday.

Newark, defending Class A champion, lost 38-44 to Marietta, and then beat Canton McKinley 31-27 last week for its 12th victory in 17 games, but the Wildcats aren't worried. They had a worse record than that in 1936 when they copped the state flag the first time.

How They Stack Up.

Here's how the top-notch teams stack up in the two divisions:

Class A: Bryan, 16-1 McConnelsville, 15-1; Akron Ellet, 9-1; New Philadelphia, 17-2; Hamilton (1937 champ), 15-2; Mt. Vernon, New Boston and Dover, 14-2; Gallipolis, 13-2; Marion and Akron Garfield, 12-2; Columbus North, 10-2; Akron Buchtel, 9-2; Middletown and Akron North, 14-3; Warren, 12-3; Dayton Fairview, 11-3; Bellevue, 15-4; Newark, 12-5, and Zanesville, 9-5.

Buckeyes Halt Northwestern

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Two hard-working young men, lanky Bill Sattler, a junior from Mineral City, O., and Jack Dawson, a speedy sophomore from Indianapolis, virtually displaced two seniors today as regulars on the Ohio State's fast-traveling Big Ten basketball contender.

Insertion of Sattler and Dawson in this Buck lineup in place of forward Dick Baker and guard Dick Boughner, two varsity holdovers from last year, sparked the Bucks to a close 30 to 26 victory over Northwestern here last night.

Sattler's six-foot, six-inch height and Dawson's speed provided the margin of floor superiority against the Wildcats and against Iowa Saturday night that enabled Ohio State to stay only one game behind Indiana in the conference cage race.

In addition Sattler contributed eight points, seven of them in the first half, to rank second to courageous Jimmy Hull who tallied nine points for Ohio.

Hull showed the effects of his week-end influenza seige that kept him from the Iowa game but nevertheless furnished the winning points with seven in the final period. Ohio State lead at the half, 20-19.

Ohio's next contest is at Wisconsin Saturday night with a return engagement at Michigan next Monday night.

Hull's nine points gave him 111 for the season, only eight behind Pick Dehner of Illinois who leads the conference scorers but has played in one more game than Hull.

One of Leaders To Fall Tonight

One of the four quintets which share first place in the Class A Church league will fall by the wayside in the weekly games at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night.

Either First Lutheran, first round champions, or Mayflower Congregational, who tangle in the third game at 8:45, at present share the lead with the Temple Emanuel and the Park Avenue Baptist outfits, will not be up there after the game.

Temple Emanuel and the Baptist teams have an even chance of clinging onto the top rung in their games. Both face lower bracket clubs. Emanuel tackles St. John's Evangelical in the final contest, and Park Avenue Baptist meets Episcopal in the second affair. The program opens with a tussle between First M. E and Central M E

Tom Farrell Sets Pace In City League Scoring

TOM FARRELL, star center of the Elks Lodge combine, holds a 16-point lead in the battle for the individual scoring championship in the City Class A league, figures released today reveal.

The lanky pivot man has collected 34 goals and eight throws for a total of 76 points, an average of 10 points per game. LeVerne Gray of the Yuncker Sports, his nearest rival, has 60 points on 20 goals and a like number of foul shots. Gray, incidentally, is the only City league player to tally more than 10 foul shots.

Bob Shade, of the Westinghouse, who held second place before last week's games, and John Reese, Sports' forward, trail in third with 59 points. Shade helped his total recently when he connected for 21 points, a new season single game individual record.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — (AP) — Baseball: There should be a break on DiMaggio within 24 hours. . . . Leo Durocher hit the jackpot (or whatever you do in bingo) to the tune of $662 the other night. . . . The papers report Prof. Bob Feller, 21, is giving pitching tips to Fred Hutchinson, 20. . . . Hank Lieber thinks the Cubs took the Giants for a buggy ride in that big winter deal and would tell Bill Terry so personally only the two aren't speaking. . . . Correction: Larry MacPhail wrote the editor of the Pageland (S. C.) Journal denying he ever said nobody within 50 miles of Pageland except Van Mungo ever made more than a hamburger.

Lou Ambers enters semi-final stages of training for his 12-round battle next Friday with Baby Arizmendi which, if he wins, will lead him to another bloody encounter with Henry Armstrong.

Twin defeats of Glenn Cunningham and Don Lash are expected to prove a tonic for the footracing business, languishing because of their consistent victories in the past.

Robert Grant, III, of New York, favored to win national recquets crown for third successive year.

Wayne Sabin seeded No. 1 in national indoor tennis tourney.

Bowman Cops 20th Victory

Stops Newman, 19-14, in School League.

Carpenter	4	17
Prospect	4	17

With Thomas pacing the attack, the Bowman Street school cagers turned back Newman, 19 to 14, for their 20th win of the season in the Grade School league games at Senior high yesterday.

In the other contests, Hedges topped Brinkerhoff, 18 to 16, in an interesting affair. Carpenter halted Prospect, 15 to 7, and Bushnell defeated Western, 18 to 10.

Bowman hopped into the lead in the opening period, and although it held the advantage until the final gun, Newman gave it an interesting battle.

Newman concentrated on halting Morhead, who was limited to one goal, but it failed to stop Thomas who tallied five baskets and a free throw. Bowman led, 6-3, in the first frame, 12-5 at the half, and 16-10 at the end of the third period.

Bushnell had its share of trouble in downing the Western club. A third-period rally enabled it to overcome a one-point Western advantage and take a lead it retained throughout.

The clubs battled through a 3-all tie in the opening period, and then Western gained a 7 to 6 lead at the intermission. Bushnell, led by Junior Brooks, who marked up 12 points, went into the final stanza ahead, 13 to 9.

The West Fifth-Woodland contest was postponed and will be played on the Thursday program.

City League Will Stage Carnival

The City Class A basketball league will stage a three-game program on the Mansfield Senior high planks Wednesday, March 1, it was announced today by Vern Jones, league president.

Two of the teams which will appear here are Bliss college of Columbus and the Keller News of Norwalk. They will meet two of the leading teams in the city's premier circuit. One other club will be secured for the card.

Italian Star Makes Debut Here Friday

Meets Wahlberg on Quality Club Card.

Whitey Wahlberg, the only wrestler to win a fall from the Great Mephisto since he reclaimed his world light-heavyweight title, will be back in Mansfield on Friday night to open another title campaign. His opponent on that night will be Firo Rinaldi, Italian contender from Milwaukee, Wis.

Rinaldi is making his first start in the midwest and the local Quality Club has again scooped the territory. Rated as one of the best Italian grapplers to be developed in recent years, Rinaldi has built up a reputation in the northwest.

In a way, the likeable Wahlberg will be playing a "trial horse" role. If Rinaldi wins over the blond Swede, Mephisto may have another serious challenger to contend with. A win by Wahlberg might prove an important step on the comeback trail.

Attempting to make Friday's card one of the most attractive ever offered here, Matchmaker Tim Nolan signified today that he is trying to sign Miss Mildred Burke of Kansas City to defend her feminine lightweight title against a leading challenger. Nolan has in mind a girl named Gladys Ryan, recent importation from Portland, Ore.

LUCAS RALLY STOPS LOUDONVILLE, 26-24

Lucas High's Richland county league representative defeated the Loudonville Redbirds, 26 to 24, in a game played at Loudonville Saturday night. Tom Greulich, with 15 poines, sparked a last-period rally that enabled the Lucas combine to win. Lucas trailed, 20 to 16, going into the final period. Bob Crawford added nine points to the winner's cause. The two players accounted for all but two of their team's total score.

Hilborn Collects 707 Total

Leads Optimists to Three Wins in Club League.

ART HILBORN held the individual spotlight at the Meder Recreation alleys last night.

Hilborn, bowling with the Optimists in the Club league, compiled a spectacular 707 total to win top honors for the evening and take the lead in the individual averages with a 201.45.

The Optimist star opened with a 227, added a 223 in the middle game and finished with a neat 257. His total helped his team to take a pair of decisions over the Liederkranz club, led by Henry Michael and Duke Weber, who collected a pair of 617's. The Optimists ran away with team honors with a 3067 total, aided by a 108 pin handicap.

The Schoolmasters ran into trouble last night, but still clung onto their lead in the championship race. They dropped three games to the Page Dairy outfit, paced by Clarence "Sonny" Meder's 604. The victories gave the Dairys second place in the standings.

In another match, Brig Young came through with a neat 688 total to lead the American Legion to two wins over the Commercial Managers. Young had a middle game of 258. The Mansfield Athletic team took a pair of games from the Kiwanis, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce five added a pair at the expense of the Baku Grotto.

Toledo Tips Kent State

(By Associated Press)

Toledo, one of the state's strongest college quintets, conquered Kent State in an Ohio conference battle last night, 49 to 45, but it was a tussle to the final gun.

The victory, strangely enough, was only Toledo's second in loop play to date, but the Rockets have engaged in but four conference tiffs. They have won two, lost one and are involved with Heidelberg in their unique "tie."

Kent State played the aggressive Toledoans on even terms until the last few minutes of the first half. The count was knotted nine times. Shortly before intermission, the Rockets spurted into a 30-24 lead.

DISTURBED AT NIGHT?

THOSE who have disturbed sleep, irregularity of urination, or burning and soreness caused by excess acid, will find Dr. Pierce's A-uric beneficial. This diuretic stimulant is of value in flushing the kidneys, diluting the acid, and relieving irritation, and it tends to ease the flow of urine. Mrs. Lizzie A. Johnson, 753 Doyle St., Columbus, Ohio, says: "I certainly had a time of it. I would feel so tired and worn-out especially in the morning. I used Dr. Pierce's A-uric Tablets and they helped me wonderfully. My kidneys gave me no more trouble and I no longer felt so tired and weary." Buy Dr. Pierce's A-uric at your drug store today.

THE WINNER

The City Loan's your "pioneer".
To help you clear the "debt frontier"
Our cash loan plan enables you
To be an "early settler" too . . .

By the looks of the hundreds of entries sent in to our Jingle Contest last month, "The City Loan" seems to be "an old Ohio custom" instead of just a "pioneer."

Nevertheless, we are proud to be called "your pioneer" if we can help you to "clear the ground" and set you on sound financial footing.

Call on us for cash to see you through your need. If a few hundred dollars will help you, our convenient loan plan will suit you well in every way.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Her Hero. By Harold Gray

HELLO, VICKEY, OLD GAL—HOW ARE YOU?
OH, MELVIN! MELVIN! I'VE BEEN SO WORRIED ABOUT YOU—WHY DIDN'T YOU WRITE?
2-21-39
WELL, I MEANT TO, BUT I'VE BEEN PRETTY BUSY—MEETING BIG PUBLISHERS—SHOWS I HAD TO SEE—GETTING IDEAS—MATERIAL—UP ALL NIGHT LOTS OF NIGHTS—
OH, I'LL BET YOU'LL WRITE WONDERFUL STORIES NOW, WON'T YOU?
WELL, IF I COULD HAVE STAYED IN THE CITY A LITTLE LONGER—THAT'S WHERE THINGS HAPPEN—LIFE—PEOPLE—AH-YES—PEOPLE—PEOPLE—
"PEOPLE COME-PEOPLE GO"—WHERE DID I HEAR THAT ONE? OR WAS IT, "PEOPLE—JUST PEOPLE"?
YOU! YOU'LL NEVER LEARN TO APPRECIATE SERIOUS THINGS—YOU'RE ALWAYS PICKING AT MELVIN—
AH, NOW THERE—NO IMAGINATION—IN FANCY I SIT FISHING AT A LYRE—L-Y-R-E—NOT L-I-A-R—AND I GUESS THE WORD IS PLUCK, NOT PICK—HMM—GOOD IDEA THERE—
HAROLD GRAY

BLONDIE—Alvin Considers Him One of the Family! By OHIO YOUNG

OKAY, MAMA—ALL RIGHT, MAMA—I'LL COME RIGHT HOME
I'LL SEE YOU TOMORROW—I'VE GOTTA GO HOME NOW
WELL AREN'T YOU GOING TO HELP ME CLEAN UP ALL THIS MUSS WE MADE, BEFORE YOU GO HOME?
WHY, I'M SURPRISED AT YOU, TALKING TO YOUR COMPANY LIKE THAT! ASKING YOUR COMPANY TO HELP CLEAN UP
WELL, WHEN WE PLAY AT YOUR HOUSE YOU ALWAYS MAKE ME HELP CLEAN UP BEFORE I GO HOME
THAT'S DIFFERENT—WHEN YOU'RE AT MY HOUSE, I'M NOT COMPANY

MATTERS ARE GETTING NO BETTER RAPIDLY WITH CLARE!
WHY NOT TELL DAVID ABOUT IT, CLARE—TAKE HIS ADVICE!
PAM—IF I WERE TO TELL DAVID THE TRUTH, WHY—HE'D GO UP THERE AND BEAT THAT MAN TO WITHIN AN INCH OF HIS LIFE!
IT'D JUST INVOLVE DAVEY IN A BIG SCANDAL—THAT'S ALL THE GOOD IT'D DO!—NO, I'M JUST—SUNK, I GUESS—IF I QUIT, I CAN'T EVEN GIVE THEM AS A REFERENCE—DON'T YOU SEE—GALTMAN WOULD BLACKBALL ME!
WHAT A SCOUNDREL HE MUST BE!
PAM, HE GIVES ME DICTATION LATE—SO'S I HAVE TO STAY AFTER NEARLY EVERY ONE'S GONE—THEN'S WHEN HE REALLY GETS OBNOXIOUS!—PAM—I HAD TO LITERALLY BEAT HIM AWAY FROM ME ONE EVENING!
YOU POOR CHILD!
I WONDER IF DIANA WARNER—SHE HAD THE PLACE BEFORE ME—DIDN'T QUIT FOR A SIMILAR REASON!—MAYBE OTHER GIRLS DID, TOO!—WELL, IF I DO QUIT I—I'M—I'M GOING T'DO SOMETHING TO THAT BLACKGUARD FORE I GO THAT'LL MAKE HIM REMEMBER ME!!!
AND HOW THESE WORDS OF CLARE'S CAME BACK TO PAM, DAYS LATER!

NOTICE!

Because, through no fault of its own, The News-Journal has been printing the comic strip "Tailspin Tommy" ahead of the regular release dates, appearance of the feature has been temporarily suspended.

However, the comic strip has not been discontinued.

It will reappear with no interruption in the continuity of the story on Saturday, Feb. 25, in the week-end green tabloid, in which it will appear thereafter.

The new and popular strip, "Blondie," now appears on this page daily.

TENSION EASES, STEELS, MOTORS GAIN SUPPORT

Weak Issues Stage Comeback for Fractional Advances After Losses.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market breathed a bit easier today and many weak issues of Monday managed to come back fractionally.

Meeting support were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Montgomery Ward, Consolidated Edison, N. Y. Central, Westinghouse and Goodrich.

Tension over foreign affairs seemed to have lessened somewhat, brokers said.

Bonds and commodities were slightly mixed. Securities turned upward at London but were uneven in other European markets.

Financial quarters studied the condition statement of federal reserve member banks in 101 cities for the week ending Feb. 15, which disclosed an increase of $16,000,000 in commercial, industrial and agricultural loans and an upturn of $27,000,000 in loans to brokers and dealers in securities.

That idle funds are continuing to press for employment was seen in the announcement of Secretary Morgenthau that the latest weekly bill issue of the treasury, amounting to $100,782,000, had been placed at 99.999, equivalent to an interest cost of .004 per cent, compared with .005 per cent for the bills sold on Feb. 10.

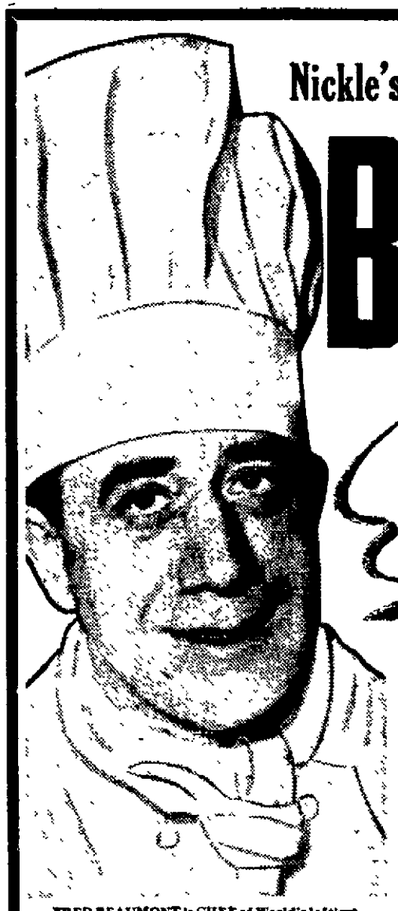
Nickle's Bread Endorsed By Dr. Davis Health School

BACK TO LIFE!



"I RECOMMEND TO YOU THE FLAVOR HARMONY PLAN. FOR IT MAKES ALL FOODS TASTE BETTER"

DR. ALEXANDER DAVIS

Yes, Nickle's Bread will help to bring you "back to life" if you are listless, lack appetite, haven't the energy to do things. Endorsed by leading dietitians as well as educators like Dr. Davis, you have the maker's assurance that Nickle's Butternut Bread is a superior and indispensable article of diet.

Nickles also make whole wheat bread, cracked wheat bread and give you too, "Home Bake" Rye and Pastries. Delivered at your home, every day!

All these fine products work into the flavor harmony plan. Eat Nickle's bread with your meals—frst a bite of salad, then a bite of bread. Then a bit of meat, and again a bite of bread. Eaten this way, Nickle's bread brings out flavor, builds health—the Flavor Harmony Plan.

Hear Dr. Alexander Davis at the Health, Beauty and Charm School sponsored by The Mansfield News-Journal tomorrow and Wednesday. Sessions at the Senior High School from 2 to 4. Dr. Davis says, "Good bread, like Nickle's, is a necessary article of diet to be used at every meal. Contrary to general opinion, bread is not fattening to active, normal persons, but a strength and endurance building food."

SEEKS WPA AID TO PAINT SENIOR HIGH BUILDING

Board Moves to Have Interior Re-decorated; Project May Include Other Schools.

A movement was under way today to obtain a WPA project for re-painting the interior of the Senior high school building.

The board of education last night appropriated $450 for the sponsor's share of the work and authorized J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, to file an application with WPA officials for funds to finance the project.

Glenn Weller, city WPA engineer, said the job would have to provide work for at least 50 men and recommended that the school board extend the project to include re-decorating of some of the older elementary buildings.

"It is more difficult every day to get WPA approval for small jobs, because the federal government is interested mainly in providing work for as many men as possible," Weller said.

Building 13 Years Old.

Moke said the interior of the high school had not been painted since the building was finished 13 years ago.

If the proposal is approved, work would start when school is out in the spring and probably would continue for several weeks, depending upon the size of the project.

The job would supplement the huge PWA school building and remodeling program now under way in the city and would bring the high school in line with the other building improvements.

The board also received a report announced by the Senior High School Athletic association several weeks ago showing total receipts for the 1938 football season at $5,879, enabling the association to pay off the $1,800 it owed on the stadium.

A report also was submitted on the Senior high school bookstore which showed a profit of $199 for the first four months of school. The book store had a cash balance of $1,164 at the beginning of the year.

POLES BUILDING CHEAPER PLANES

Produce Three Moderately-Priced Commercial Machines.

WARSAW, Poland—(AP)—The Warsaw Aeroplane Works is attempting to popularize aviation by producing three moderately priced types of machines.

The first is a two-seater with a 90 horsepower motor and a maximum speed of 170 kilometers an hour. It is priced at $3,500.

Another two-seater type has a 60 horsepower motor which can reach a speed of 150 kilometers an hour. It can travel 100 kilometers on 10 liters of gasoline. It costs $3,000.

PROTECTED TOO

Loan Company Savings Also Insured by Government.

Representing the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance corporation in the Mansfield area, Perry Burns of Cincinnati pointed out today that the federal government provides protection up to $5,000 against loss in insured savings and loan companies

The investment insurance law, similar to that which protects bank depositors, now serves 220 building and loan associations in Ohio with assets of more than 400 millions of dollars.

Burns added that the insurance plan protects the investor against all contingencies which may threaten the safety of his investment such as wilful dishonest acts, natural hazards like tornadoes and fires, or the reversal of economic trends which may threaten the solvency of an institution.

The feeling of safety the insurance provides increases the flow of funds in the building trades, gives a wider spread to the tax burden, and makes home ownership easier, Burns said.

ASHLAND—Judgment of $1,988.24 is asked in common pleas court here in the action of Home Owners' Loan Corporation against Virgil O. and Helen Harmon. Foreclosure on a mortgage on lot 2503 in North Ashland is asked.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1938.)

CHAPTER ONE

WIPING HER feet on the door mat with mechanical precision, Lona Ackerman wished fervently that Mrs. Peterman might not observe her entrance. "Make her be in the kitchen. . . . Don't let her see me. . . . Make her be in the kitchen," she kept repeating over and over to herself in a childish refrain as she opened the door cautiously, and tip-toed through the hall to the stairs. Her heart thumping with much apprehension, as if she had just robbed a bank, she started up, taking the steps one at a time, trying desperately to be quiet.

Half way up she paused and clinging to the bannister, listened intently. Voices were coming down from above. A man's tones, low and rumbling, and a woman's high pitched and querulous. Lona's spirits sank. Mrs. Peterman was in the upstairs hall! Interviewing a new boarder, probably. And she'd have to pass them to reach her room. No getting out of it now, unless she went back down the stairs and out into the street again. The eternal street she had been walking all day! The sickening, grinding pavement. No, she couldn't do that. She couldn't go back out there! Even facing Mrs. Peterman was preferable to that.

Straightening her slight figure resolutely, she marched up the stairs, her shoulders flinging themselves back defiantly, her brown hair making a halo about her set young face. After all, she had done nothing wrong—as yet! She was no criminal to be sneaking about avoiding people. The worst Mrs. Peterman could do was to put her out for not paying her rent. Put her out on the street again. . . .

"Don't let her speak to me. . . . Maker her not speak to me . . ." her mind kept saying over and over again as she trod on each step. It was odd the way things had been saying themselves like that inside her head all day. Whenever she tried to plan, there seemed to spring up a little refrain, quite independent of what she wanted to be thinking.

Perhaps it was the result of tramping so much lately, without eating any lunches. And then last night she had had no supper, had been afraid to come downstairs here at the boarding house, afraid to face Mrs. Peterman. She winced at the thought of the two weeks the woman had given her the last time she had been unable to pay her board. Two weeks that had been up yesterday.

At the top of the stairs, she stopped suddenly, and waited. Standing in the hall were Mrs. Peterman and a strange man. In one hand the woman carried a bunch of keys, and her face lighted up when she saw Lona.

"I've been looking for you, Miss Ackerman," she said, in her cracked, big city voice. "This gentleman here is hunting a room, and since you told me you were thinking of—ah—of moving, I took him in to see yours." She jingled her keys and peered at Lona through the gloom of the hall. Then she turned to the man.

"This is the young lady I've been telling you about," she said, significantly. "If you don't mind going down to the parlor and waiting, I'll sort of—talk things over with her." She beamed on him.

* * *

For a moment he looked at Lona doubtfully. He was a tall young fellow, with brown eyes that made Lona remember, illogically, the brown spaniel she had once owned. The hand that held his hat was marked by work. She saw that with a thrill of envy. Work! What wouldn't she give to be able to stretch out her own white hands and match callus for callus! Work!

"I hate to hurry the young lady." The man looked from her to the landlady doubtfully. But Mrs. Peterman would have none of his objections.

"The parlor's the room to the right," she directed. "I'll be down in a few minutes. I'm sure you won't mind waiting."

When he had gone, she turned to Lona. "Well, dearie, you see how it is," she began.

"Yes, I see how it is." Lona was trying desperately, now that the moment had come, to keep her shoulders straight, her chin up. "I'll go and start packing," she said, brushing past Mrs. Peterman and into her room door. "It won't take me long. You can tell your—prospect I've decided to move." She even managed a crooked smile.

"Oh, listen here now, dearie!" Mrs. Peterman followed her and stood in the doorway gingling her keys. "You mustn't take it like that. I hate to see you go, but I—it seems to me it would be worse for me to let you stay on. All you have to do is hunt up a Y. W. C. A. They take care of girls like you, and it won't cost you a cent. If I let you hang on here you'll be pilin' up room rent you can't pay, goin' in debt. . . . It's really for your own good."

* * *

She broke off and watched Lona as she doggedly pulled her pitifully few belongings from the drawers of the rickety dresser and threw them into her battered suitcase. When the girl did not answer she went on again, uneasily.

"I'm a widow and I got to look out for myself. You understand that, don't you? You can't blame me. All you got to do is hunt up a 'Y.' They'll see you're taken care of . . ."

Lona picked up the picture of her mother from the dresser top, closed its folder carefully, and thrust it into the suitcase. . . . Why didn't the woman go? . . . Why did she stand there talking? . . . Why didn't she go? . . . The refrain was running through her mind again.

"I'll forget what you owe me. Don't worry about that. And I'd like you to stay on. But I'm a poor widow, and you can't blame me. When you're through with your packin' come down and I'll give you your supper. It's a little early, but come to the kitchen. If you want me to, I'll look up the nearest 'Y' in the phone book."

"Don't bother," Lona said, tonelessly. "I'll get along." Then, with a sudden overwhelming relief, "There's the phone ringing. You'd better go . . ."

* * *

When she was rid of her at last, Lona shut the door and sat down wearily on the bed. A sudden impulse to bury her head in the pillows and refuse to move for anyone seized her. The sense of unreality that had been haunting her for the past few weeks became doubly vivid. This couldn't be she, this penniless girl who was being driven out into the street. . . . This terrible thing couldn't be happening to her! It must be a dream, a nightmare from which she would wake soon to find herself back in her old job at the office. All this couldn't be real. Life couldn't be treating her like this!

Sitting there on the bed, she looked about her at the shabby little room that had been her home these last few years. She had never felt any real liking for it. It was ugly and drab, the furniture was worn and old, the rug was dingy. But it was her home. And she was leaving it! Was being put out by that garrulous drab of a landlady and that brown-eyed man in the parlor. "It can't be true . . ." her mind kept saying as she rose and went on, lifelessly, with her packing, "It can't be true . . . It can't be true."

And then came a knock on the door. "Mom says your supper's ready in the kitchen, Miss Ackerman," a childish voice piped out.

"Tell her I'm not hungry," she flung back and, closing the suitcase with a bang, she gathered her coat on her arm. She jammed her old felt hat down over her hair without consulting the mirror, took one last despairing look about her and, squaring her sagging shoulders, flung open the door and marched resolutely back down the stairs.

Through the parlor door she caught a glimpse of a lounging figure, smoking and watching the stairs. She would have passed him, head up, but he rose to his feet,

The man looked from Lona to the landlady doubtfully.

and stopped her with a hand on her arm.

"I'm afraid I've caused you some inconvenience," he said, looking at her searchingly. "Mrs. Peterman says you're going to the 'Y.' If you'll allow me to carry that grip, I'd be glad to see you there." Again the brown eyes brought back to Lona the swift memory of Tiny, the spaniel, and he winced. He had loved her, that spaniel, back in other days before the world had crashed.

"It's just around the corner." She managed to make her voice sound normal. "I think I can manage. Thank you just the same."

"But I'd really like to—" he began. Forcing a smile, she brushed past him. If he looked at her like that again, she'd break down and cry! And she couldn't cry here, where Mrs. Peterman could see her and gloat. She wouldn't have anybody pitying her, least of all that shrill-voiced hag.

* * *

Out on the street she turned sharply and headed downtown as if she knew exactly where she was going. The odor of frying pork chops followed her tantalizingly, reminding her that she had had no lunch and that it was nearing six o'clock. Setting down her suitcase as soon as she was around the corner where she couldn't be seen from the house, she opened her shabby purse and searched it with trembling fingers. Three thin dimes and a street car check were all she could find. Thirty cents between her and the city!

IMPORTANCE OF FRAMEWORK IN HOUSES CITED

Officials Stress Necessity for Savings in Structures of Small Size.

Structural framework must be kept constantly in mind in the planning of low-priced dwellings, according to FHA officials.

The architect must think in terms of the materials he uses and in terms of the available units of these materials, they say. From 10 to 20 per cent of the materials delivered to a site are wasted. This means wasted cost in transportatin of the materials, as well as in labor costs.

Designer Blamed.

Waste may be attributed in part to the failure of the designer to plan so as to utilize masonry units without the necessity of breaking odd sizes, lumber in standard lengths requiring neither overlapping nor cutting, and glass in stock dimensions.

Additional savings may be made in the use of stock mill items such as doors, window sash, frames, moldings and cabinets, avoiding as much fabrication at the site of building as possible, it is said. The placing of walls and partitions should be kept direct and simple, since corners mean increased cost. The general plan, to save material, should be kept rectangular, as nearly square as practicable. Interior partitions should be straight, avoiding breaks and angles, and should be placed over bearing members to eliminate additional supports.

Hints For The Home Owner

To Brighten Dark Rooms.

Because certain colors reflect more light than others, it is often posible to make a dark room brighter by changing the color of wall and ceiling paint.

A survey recently completed by a large electrical company showed that to obtain the best light ceiling tints should have a reflection value of 85 per cent. To achieve this value the ceiling should be painted white or some color close to white. A 45 per cent reflection value should be supplied by the walls, requiring a color such as light blue, gray, tan, pink, or light green. Lower walls should have a reflection value of 20 per cent, obtainable through use of dark green, dark blue, or maroon.

Painting or papering the interior of the house is eligible under the property improvement credit plan for the Federal Housing administration. Funds for such work are obtained from qualified lending institutions.

Functions of Insulation.

The human body loses heat in two ways: To the air around it—by convection and conduction—and to the walls and objects around it—by radiation. Under ideal conditions, it loses more than half of its total heat production by radiation. The most commonly used heating systems — steam, hot water, and warm air—are designed only to warm the air and have little or no provision for warming the inside surfaces of the outer walls. As a result, these cold walls, even in a warmly heated house, frequently exercise a chilling effect on the occupants by disproportionately draining them of their body heat by radiation, just as a piece of ice drains the heat from a hand held near it

One of the chief functions of insulation is to balance the bodily heat loss by slowing down this loss of radiated heat When a typical house wall is filled with insulation the temperature of its inside surface is substantially raised. The thicker the insulation installed in the wall, the higher will its surface temperature become When the wall-stud spaces are completely filled with insulation, the temperatures of both inside air and inside wall surface are approximately equal Insulation thus promotes balanced bodily heat losses and results in more comfortable and more healthful interior environments

Funds with which to complete such insulation work may be obtained from lending institutions qualified by the Federal Housing administration under its property improvement credit plan

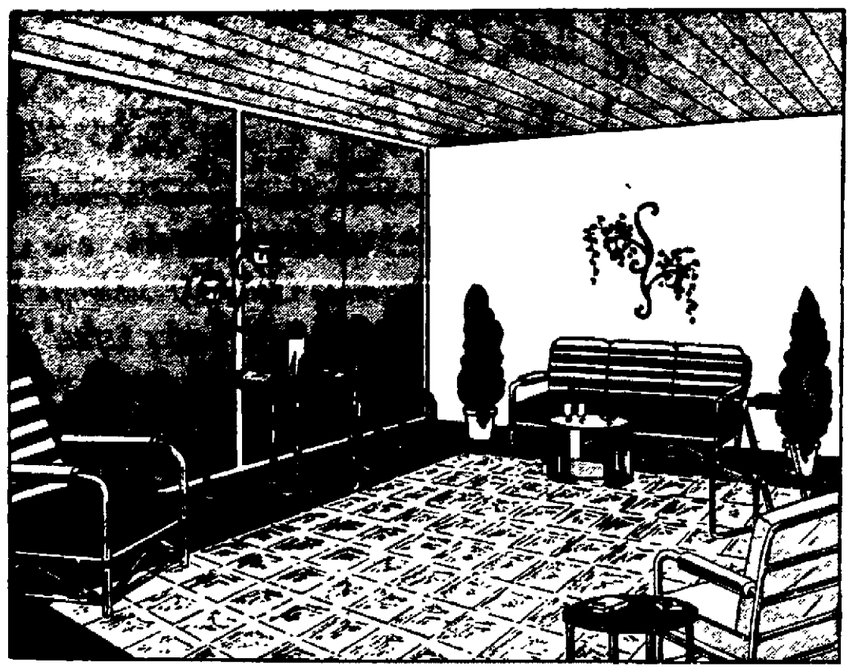
Restful, Comfortable Porch Plan



In warm and summer weather the porch takes first place in a family's affections and caters to its comfort as competently as a country inn. Restful chairs and couches invite ease-taking while tables suggest the pleasures of outdoor dining. Smoothly painted surfaces and summery color schemes supply the final note of invitation to relaxation

IMPORTANCE OF PLANNING AND ZONING STRESSED BY LEADERS

Growing realization that cities will reap in declining tax receipts the harvest they have sown by permiting haphazard community growth is leading officials to place far greater emphasis upon planning, zoning, and subdivision control measures, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald said.

Until the past few years, the administrator stated, the majority of our "city fathers" proceeded on the theory that control measures were not necessary because neighborhood blight was an inevitable part of the life cycle of properties and was symptomatic of growth.

Experience of recent years, indicating that cities probably will grow more slowly in the future, has convinced many public officials that neighborhood deterioration must be prevented. Many cities also are looking for practical means of rehabilitating neighborhoods which have been allowed to go to pieces in the expectation that expanding business and industry would soon absorb the area.

"Among the most serious results of our failure to provide for orderly municipal development is the premature blighting of established sections of the city and the consequent destruction of taxable land and property values in those neighborhoods," McDonald said.

"Our wasteful methods of city growth have needlessly shortened the economic life of thousands of properties and contributed to the destruction of millions of dollars of property values.

"Another closely related problem concerns the premature subdivision of land, particularly land outside the city limits. Normal city growth would eventually call for the use of some of this land However, the practice of subdividing land before it is ripe for development has the dual effect of attracting families from well-established neighborhoods in cities, and of creating serious civic problems, such as undue extension of public utilities, the need for new police and fire protection and new schools, and the like.

ATTENDANCE OFF

January School Report Also Shows Increase in Tardiness.

Attendance in Mansfield public schools dropped off slightly in January and the number of cases of tardiness and truancy increased over December, the monthly report compiled by Supt. W. L. Miller showed today

Total attendance for the month was 93 per cent of the enrollment as against 94.2 per cent in December, while the number of pupils who were neither absent nor tardy dropped off to 3,323 in January from 3,503 in the preceding month. Cases of truancy increased to 21 in January from 11 the preceding month, and 688 pupils were tardy in January, an increase of 45 over the December total.

MILLERSBURG—Howard Fesler, 23, of near Tiverton, was bound over to Holmes county grand jury under $1,000 bond when he pleaded guilty to a charge of check forging in Justice Wayne Stilwell's court He is held in jail in default of bond.

BREAKFAST NOOK HOME FEATURE

It is frequently desirable, in houses which have full-sized dining rooms, to dedicate a corner for a breakfast nook, especially when there are junior members of the family.

The nook should have a built-in cabinet for breakfast dishes, children's silverware and dishes, and electric cooking equipment such as grill, percolator, and waffle iron.

A folding table hinged to the wall may be built. A breakfast nook will reduce housework as well as wear and tear on the dining-room furniture.

Breakfast nooks may be built in homes with funds obtained from lending institutions qualified by the Federal Housing administration under its property improvement credit plan.

Chimney Top Screening Held Vital Safety Item

Many homes being built today include one or more open wood-burning fireplaces. With such fireplaces, one precaution should be taken to reduce the fire hazard to an absolute minimum.

A wood fire builds up a strong draft and good-sized sparks, and pieces of buring paper will often be drawn up and discharged by the chimney. To prevent these from flying out and igniting the roof or perhaps piles of leaves near the house, a screen should be placed over the top of the chimney.

The screen should be given an occasional cleaning in order to prevent clogging and reduction of the necessary draft in the chimney.

The Property Improvement Credit Plan of the Federal Housing administration offers a method for obtaining funds to repair or remodel fireplaces and chimneys. The money is advanced by lending institutions qualified by the FHA.

CONFIDENCE OF PUBLIC NEEDED

Good Will Important Factor in Building Field, Says Federal Administrator.

The future soundness of the building industry depends in large measure upon the confidence of the public in the building industry and in those agencies of government related to home building and home finance, Federal Housing Administrator Stewart McDonald said.

"Only through requiring that homes for all classes of the people be honestly built and that at least a minimum protection be assured their investment may confidence be created and maintained," he said.

"The Federal Housing Administration," he continued, "does not propose a standard to build down to but one to build up from. Through the exercise of its authority to insure mortgages it distinctly seeks good housing in stable surroundings, housing which is reasonable security for long-term mortgages, which will helpfully influence mortgage security generally, and which will produce confidence and satisfaction in the public for which the building industry and the home-finance system exists."

LEASES BUILDING

Grange Rents Old Roseland School for 2-Year Period.

The old Roseland school building at the northern edge of the city had been leased today to Roseland Grange No. 2,668, for two years at $5 per month. The Mansfield board of education which owns the building approved the lease last night.

J. B. Moke, superintendent of buildings, said the lease would interfere in no way with the holding of community meetings and Sunday school sessions in the building which was abandoned as a school about five years ago when pupils in the district were transferred to Mansfield.

The board last night authorized Moke to request the Mansfield Civil Service commission to certify a licensed assistant janitor to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John Woolard.

Moke reported that recommendations for minor improvements in the heating systems at Senior high, John Simpson junior high, Bushnell and Newman were made following an inspection by insurance representatives.

MILLER TO GO TO SCHOOL PARLEY

American School Administrators Convene In Cleveland Today.

Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield schools and several principals of buildings will go to Cleveland Saturday to attend sessions of the convention of the American Association of School Administrators.

Sessions of the convention opened today and will continue for two weeks, with 700 speakers scheduled to talk at departmental meetings. It is estimated that 12,000 superintendents, research specialists, professors and teachers will be in Cleveland during the convention.

Principal speakers include Jan Masaryk, son of the first president of Czechoslovakia; Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, and J. A. Johnston, warden of Alcatraz federal penitentiary.

RECEIVES FIRST PWA ALLOTMENT

School Gets More Than Half of Grant for New Buildings.

After financing the city's $1,000,000 school building program so far from a $550,000 bond issue, the Mansfield board of education today had received its first allotment of $250,000 in PWA funds.

The allocation represents one-fourth of the total cost of the program and slightly more than half of the $450,000 the schools will get from the federal government to finance the program.

Thirty-five per cent of the grant will be distributed to the schools when the program is 70 per cent completed, and the rest after the work is finished and approved.

BARGAIN AT TEN TIMES THE PRICE

Coshocton Lady Puts Commendable Value On Famous World's Tonic.

Say "Excellent for Indusing Proper Elimination."

World's Tonic may feel rightfully entitled to a sense of modest pride when bearing its qualities extoled in the praiseworthy manner used by Mrs. Gertrude Major of 989 Kenneth St., recently:

"World's Tonic would be a bargain even if it cost ten times as much as it does. It is by far the most excellent medicine I have ever used for bringing about proper elimination. For a long time I was so badly constipated that it meant almost no end of trouble. I used to have dizzy spells, could see dancing little spots and had my togue coated with a fuzzy substance time after time. My memory was becoming alarming and at times my shoulders and limbs ached so badly that I was miserable. At different times my doctor said I had symptoms of rheumatism, neuritis and lumbago. It did feel as if all these pains were rolled into one frightful plague and given to me.

"I tried salts, crystals and candy laxatives and a lot of other strong, unpleasant things but not any of them brought the desired results. I tired of using soda for gas and indigestion because the relief I got was only temporary. For a long time I've had the idea that if I could get a good thorough internal house-cleaning it might help in having my prayers answered.

"Well, I feel now that World's Tonic has supplied that very wish after taking only a few bottles. I feel so clean inside and all the confusion and annoyance that my former unclean condition created is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. I'm sleeping well, feeling a whole lot better and look it, and I wouldn't be without World's Tonic for anything. I'm going to keep it on hand just in case. It's almost too good to be true, expecting that a stubborn situation like mine appeared to be, could be so nicely remedied in such a short time. And even if the old symptoms start returning I'll have World's Tonic right at hand so I'm not worrying."

World's Tonic is intended to assist nature in promoting a free and liberal bowel action. You do not have to buy extra pills or tablets to get results.

King's Place at Dinner Is Fixed, Seating Others Is the Problem

By SIGRID ARNE
Associated Press Feature Writer

WASHINGTON — There is no head to a dinner-table in Washington's inner social set. The important, diamond-studded spot is right at the middle of a long table.

Here is why. Suppose the head-and-foot custom were in use when the King and Queen of England visit here next Spring. At the White House dinner that will be given for them the President would sit at the head with the Queen on his right. And where would the King of England and the Emperor of India to be found? Why down at the foot of the table on Mrs. Roosevelt's right. And heaven forbid that a king be sunk down among the salt-and-peppers.

Second In a Series of Three

So Washington's social arbiters say that a host and hostess should sit facing each other at the center of a long table. That puts the ranking guests (king-this or prince-that) right in the middle of things.

And does that add an extra fillip to the undercover battle raging among the social-ites! They are busy wheedling, wangling and bluffing for invitations to the dinner for the Britishers, but in addition, they are jockeying for positions up near the roses in the silver centerpiece. Half a dozen letters come in each day hinting that Mr. and Mrs. would be able to find time to attend a dinner for George the Sixth and his lady.

Table Solves Puzzle.

There is another problem to seating dinner guests at the White House. Some 80 to 90 are invited to each of the five official dinners given each season. That is too many people to seat at one long table, and besides nobody can sit with his back to the President. So the White House table is set up like a horse-shoes with the open end to the big fireplace in the state dining room. That puts the President and Mrs. Roosevelt facing each other in the center of the horseshoe with the ranking guests alongside.

Before such dinners get off to a start on the consomme there must be enough bookkeeping done to get the Kingdom of Graustark out of the red.

First Mrs. Roosevelt makes up her guest list with the help of her social secretary, Mrs. James Helm, a Navy widow who knows procedure. Then the list is sent to the State department where H. C. Spruks, the ceremonial officer, decides who will set next to whom. That's a fine problem in social algebra which goes this way:

The president is the head of any party he attends.

The vice president comes next.

The others follow in this order: ambassadors, supreme court judges, senators, representatives, and then the hoi-poloi which may be just-plain-rich-people, members of the press, and friends of the president.

Worse Than Jig-Saw.

But suppose there are three ambassadors there. Who sits nearest the president? Why, the ambassador who has been there the longest. That goes for all the other classifications. But it takes a Philadelphia lawyer to look it up. When the State department finally gets the seating down in proper black-and-white the guest list goes back to Mrs. Roosevelt.

She sends it next to A. B. Tolley, of the White House staff, who works out a large, white cardboard diagram of the table. At each place he cuts a little slit, and into these slits he fits a narrow card bearing the name of a guest. Like playing paper-dolls.

When a name card has been fitted correctly into each slit the diagram is carried to Mrs. Helm who carries it like a platter of pearls to the state dining room about two hours before the dinner. Mrs. Roosevelt usually joins her, and together they see that the place cards are in their right places according to the Tolley-state department diagram.

There is a a last check against mistakes. It is a seating-made-easy scheme for the guests, As each man guest takes off his coat he is handed—in a white envelope bearing the president's seal—a little white card in which is a map of the dinner table and the name of the lady he is to take in. On the map are two small, pencilled crosses to show him the approximate position of his place at the table.

Then it is up to the gentleman to steer himself and his dinner partner to their seats with such nonchalance that the others will think he is a regular Thursday night eater-at-the-White-House.

How Places Are Set For a White House Dinner

1. MRS. ROOSEVELT and her social secretary, Mrs. James Helm, shown here with her at a picnic, first make up the guest list.

2. THEN H. C. SPRUKS, the ceremonial officer, worries and worries as he tries to decide who shall sit where. When he's checked and rechecked, the list goes back to the First Lady for approval.

3. TO MAKE SURE that the approved seating arrangement is followed, A. B. Tolley of the White House staff works out a precise cardboard diagram naming each place. Each guest is directed according to that map.

BROMFIELD JOINS NOTED GROUP IN WRITING ON JEWISH PROBLEM

The Jewish problem as it relates to America is the subject of a book which will be published by a group of outstanding Americans, among them Louis Bromfield, Mansfield novelist.

The book, "We Unite Against Anti-Semitism," is a symposium of opinions expressed by governmental figures, writers, artists and other persons prominent in American life.

It is being published by the League of American writers and not only holds a bright view for the American system of justice, but defends Jewry and democracy in general, holding that democracy is the major solution to the Jewish problem.

The keynote of the book is struck by Rockwell Kent, painter, in the assertion that the "cure for anti-semitism lies in democracy." Secretary of Agriculture Wallace says: "We may be sure that any anti-semitic drive in the United States is but the first move in the drive to substitute dicatorship for democracy. The method of the oppressor is to point the finger of hatred at minority groups."

Solicitor General Jackson asserts that "the very composition of the American people is a defense against oppression of any minority." Fannie Hurst, Jewish author, says that mothers must educate their children to be intolerant of intolerance, and that "anti-Semitism must not be fanned by haphazard assimilations."

Bromfield, however, expresses the view that the Jew must help himself. "I should ask the Jew to be lass clannish," Bromfield writes, "less orthodox. I should ask him not to huddle together with his fellows in certain quarters of towns.

"I should ask him not to teach his children that Jews are God's chosen people. I should even ask him to marry with Gentiles. But above all else, I should ask him to disperse his people."

Bromfield adds however, that the next best solution would be "for the Jewish people to form a nation of its own."

Secretary of the Interior Ickes, Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison and many other prominent persons express opinions in the volume.

Questions Tell of New Jobless Insurance Act

Editor's Note—This is another of a series of questions and answers pertaining to the new Ohio Unemployment Compensation Act.

Q.—Under what circumstances is the owner of property the employer of the general contractor engaged to construct a building?

A.—The owner of the property would be considered an employer of the general contractor when there is an employer-employe relationship existing between such parties or when such property owner reserves in himself the right of control as to what shall be done and how it shall be done.

Q.—Under what circumstances is this owner subject to payroll taxes on the wages paid the workers on the construction project?

A.—Only when the owner is the employer of such workers and retains control over the methods to be used in the performance of said job.

Q.—Is the owner of the building liable for unemployment compensation contributions for the employes of the contractor and sub-contractors?

A.—Usually not.

Q.—How can the owner of the building avoid liability for unemployment compensation contributions and have definite knowledge that the contributions have been paid?

A.—The owner of the building would not be liable where the contract is let to a general contractor and the general contractor sublets to the sub-contractors.

Q.—Is a general contractor liable for contributions on the employes of a sub-contractor?

A.—If there is no employer-employe relationship, no. If there is such an employer-employe relationship, yes.

Q.—Are contractors specializing in certain trades and offering their services to the public subject to contributions on their employes?

A.—Any employer who . . . three or more individuals in coverable employment at any one time is liable under the Ohio act.

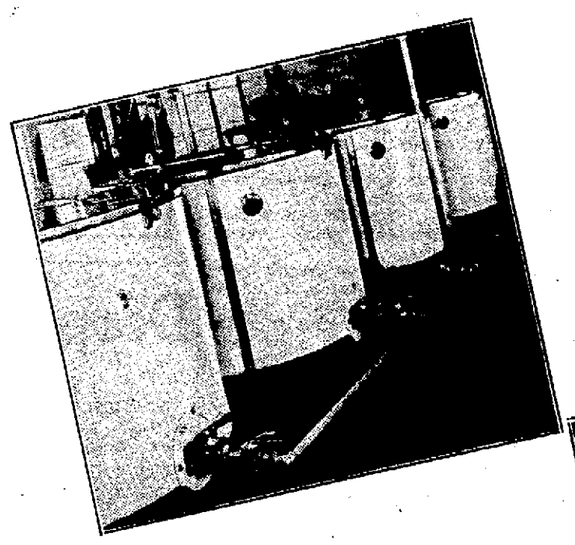
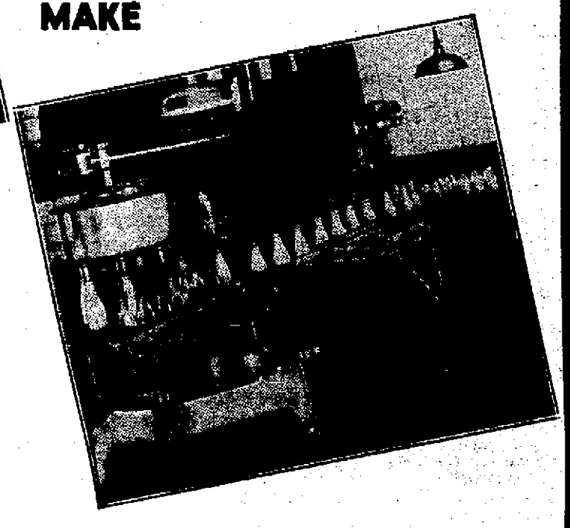
DOCTORS AND SCIENTISTS RECOMMEND THE MILKY WAY TO HEALTH AND BEAUTY



SUPERIOR SCIENTIFIC METHODS AND EQUIPMENT MAKE



ISALY'S "Grade A" MILK AND DAIRY PRODUCTS MANSFIELD'S FINEST

The modern glass-lined pasteurizing tanks and the automatic cellophane hooding machine pictured here are typical of the modern scientific advancements that make Isaly's, Mansfield's most modern dairy. In each important production step the purity and wholesomeness of Isaly's grade A milk, cream, butter, and other essential dairy foods, are instilled and protected by similar scientific methods. Naturally, these methods make Isaly's milk and dairy products richer in food value, higher in quality, and more economical. Join your many Mansfield neighbors in their enjoyment of these finer "milky way to health" foods.

"Milk and dairy products," says Dr. Alexander Davis, lecturer at the Health, Beauty and Charm School which is presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, February 20, 21 and 22 at the Mansfield High Auditorium "are rich sources of precious vitamins and minerals. The average person's diet is sadly deficient in calcium and phosphorus, as well as vitamins A, B and G which milk supplies." We are proud that Dr. Davis selected Isaly's milk and dairy products because of their higher quality, food value and purity.

What business needs is fewer orders from Washington and more from customers.

A check is worthless—except as it is given value by the reliability of the person who presents it.

Probably nothing can be done about it, but it doesn't seem just fair to let children get the idea that Jesse James was really the typical American.

Youth's Problem of Leisure.

MANSFIELD'S Youth Forum presents the idea that there is a need in this city for a non-alcoholic night club, where young people can find entertainment, amusement, recreation and other leisure-time activities in more wholesome environment than is now being provided.

This is a matter that links so closely with a number of local problems that its importance should not be minimized.

Frequent mention is made of the few hours per week in which church and school properties are made use of in performing their specific functions.

Whether it would be practicable to make some social use of the idle time of some such buildings may be worth considering, or the time may soon be ripe for revival of an earlier effort to finance the erection of a more adequate Y. M. C. A. building in Mansfield—or further expanding the social program of the Y. W. C. A.

The convenience, and needs, of various parts of the city should also be given thoughtful consideration in this connection. Just as Friendly House is performing valuable service in its field, the reasonable requirements of other youthful and adult groups in Mansfield for wholesome leisure-time activities should receive attention.

Whatever can be done along these lines will prove to be worth the effort and financial outlay necessary to accomplishment.

Another Veteran Passes.

ANOTHER of Mansfield's few remaining men who served to link the present generation with the stirring days of the Civil war has passed from earthly life.

Thomas Jefferson Shocker, born in historic Philadelphia on July 4, 1848, seventy-second anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, was among the 15-year-old boys of 1863 who responded to Lincoln's call for more soldiers. He was just 15 when the Battle of Gettysburg was being fought, and enlisted soon afterward.

When the war ended, with its accomplishment of the preservation of the Union, 17-year-old Thomas Shocker found employment with the Pennsylvania railroad company, in which he continued for more than a half century. His final years were given to the enjoyment of spending much time in the congenial atmosphere of the Memorial building, in association with comrades of war days.

In the life of Mr. Shocker are found a number of things that typify the America into which he was born—he served his country in time of need; he was unswerving in his patriotism; he earned his own way, enjoyed life and was not overcome by its difficulties or sorrows, and contributed to the pleasure of others by his unfailing good humor and keen wit. His was a long, full life—one to whom it might again be said: "Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will make thee ruler over many things."

Cars Without Sufficient Lights.

AN item in yesterday's paper to the effect that a motorist was arrested in the vicinity of Mansfield, and later fined in municipal court, for driving with insufficient lights, serves to direct attention to the commonness of this offense in Mansfield and surrounding territory.

Requirement for two headlights and a tail-light on cars driven after dark is—or should be—known by all motorists, yet carelessness or thoughtlessness is responsible for dozens of instances in which cars are driven after nightfall with only one headlight burning, or without a tail-light.

Nor is it uncommon to encounter cars on which lights have not been turned on until long after gathering dusk has made them difficult to see at a distance.

It is quite likely that even a gesture toward enforcement would result in more attention being paid to the law requiring that cars shall be properly lighted within a half hour after sunset.

German-American Barter.

THE Nazi government has been conducting its foreign trade lately by barter, because it has no money. It will export a quantity of manufactured goods and receive in return food products and other essentials which it lacks. There has been considerable trade of this kind with South American countries. Now a similar proposal is made for United States products. The details are interesting.

Germany is reported as offering farm machinery, poultry netting and barbed wire in exchange for 150,000 tons of wheat and several hundred thousand tons of lard, the Germans being particularly short of fats. The exchange would be effected through farmers' and packers' co-operative associations. The lard alone would amount to $28,000,000 at current prices.

There seems to be no barrier, in theory, to such bartering. The big obstacle is probably the practical one of finding a market for all that farm machinery, barbed wire and poultry netting without cutting in on similar production in this country.

Dog Racing Again Proposed,

WHILE dog racing has been developed into a popular form of gambling in some states, notably Florida, it may be doubted if there is any considerable public demand for this kind of "entertainment" in Ohio.

A bill has again been introduced in the legislature, however, to legalize dog racing in this state, with the idea that additional revenues could thus be produced.

If there is a real demand for this sort of legislation it seems not unreasonable that this should be shown by means of an initiative petition of interested parties, rather than that the legislature assume responsibility for acting in a matter of such debatable propriety.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Harry Hopkins, so inside informant has it, may soon wheedle Secretary Ickes out of his belligerent position in the power picture and begin a program to pacify the $13,000,000,000 electric industry.

If the thing develops as forecast, it will mark the second time Hopkins has come out as Presidential No. 1 man in the recovery effort, while Ickes takes a rear seat. Before, it was in the spending-for-prosperity effort, PWA spending was slow. WPA could spend fast, and Hopkins got most of the money. Ickes growled for months.

For five years the power industry has been the New Deal's whipping boy. It came out of the prosperity period with hands dirtied by the Insull debacle and was a prime target for reformists like Senatro Norris and the welterweight left-wingers, Corcoran and Cohen.

They first put through the public utility holding company act and then helped to pump government capital into publicly owned power production through Ickes' PWA and the Rural Electrification Administration.

Now the power industry, in normal times, spends from $400,000,000 to $500,000,000 a year in plant expansions. Beginning about 1932 that type of power company spending stopped.

* * *

Complaints of Companies.

THE companies have complained that government interference on many fronts made it impossible to get new capital; that their depression troubles have been augmented by:

1. TVA, Bonneville, and similar government power enterprises.
2. The menace of drastic reorganization enforced under the holding company act.
3. Financing by rural electrification, and, far more seriously, by Secretary Ickes of 365 municipal and regional power projects with a potential outlay of more than $125,000,000.

Long ago the Securities and Exchange commission indicated it was going to deal tenderly with power companies under the holding company reorganization act. Current reports say, with the exception of Associated Gas and Electric, the companies and SEC are getting along with reasonable harmony.

The recent $80,000,000 price paid by TVA for Commonwealth and Southern's Tennessee properties indicated that the TVA phase of the war was smoothing out. Bonneville competition is still something in the future for the Northwest.

* * *

Logs In the Jam.

THAT leaves — Secretary Ickes. He and his municipal power program are not the only logs in the jam. Yet we have it on good authority that PWA loans and grants for power projects create most of the complaints from companies seeking to comply with the holding company act.

Here is an example cited. Two centrally located companies own operating systems which dove-tail into each other like a cross-word puzzle. Under the holding company act, this "sprawling" type of organization is banned. Each unit must be regionally integrated. The head of one company was willing to trade plant for plant so each company could consolidate its holdings. The other executive balked. He said two federally finance municipal projects were growing up right beside some of the property he would have to accept in trade. They are still not integrated.

Like his other PWA projects, Ickes had to start his last municipal power project by last December 31. He can't start any more unless congress puts up more money. That is where Hopkins, now Secretary of Commerce comes into the picture.

Our information is that there won't be much more municipal power money beyond that already allocated. But there are lots of municipal power advocates in congress, all grouped around Senator Norris, whose state is being cross-hatched with them.

And the supposition is that Hopkins can't calm the power executives until he can assure them, among other things, that they can resume their half billion yearly expansion program without too much fear that Ickes will park a publicly financed plant right down beside them.

Timely Editorial

Used for a Day.

Careless shopping is receiving serious and well-merited attention at the National Retail Dry Goods association convention in New York. Return of purchased goods, on delegate estimated, costs the retailers, and through them, the American public, $32,000,000 a year, an estimate which seems high at first glance but quite reasonable when we consider that from 10 to 30 per cent of garments purchased in our stores are sent back.

Retailers have studied this problem, but because of competitive conditions they cannot deny customers the exchange privilege, no matter how much it is abused. The best they can do is fight to keep down the chiselers who take an article on approval, use it, then send it back. But the public itself could, through consumers' organizations, women's clubs and such media, take constructive action in this regard, and it would be to its interest to do so. The more unnecessary charges are cut down the cheaper goods will become.—Boston Transcript.

HOORAY! THIS SNOW IS A LIFE SAVER!
AND HELPS FEED THE WORLD; IT IS A GREAT NATIONAL ASSET!
IF THEY'D ONLY DRIVE THAT CAREFULLY ALL THE TIME!
I'M NOT DOING A MILE OVER FIFTEEN!
DARN THIS SNOW
BUT NOBODY SEEMS TO APPRECIATE IT'S VALUE IN A WORLD OF PERILOUS TRAFFIC HAZARDS!

Dropping McManamy Irks Labor

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The railroad brotherhoods' official news organ, "Labor," speaks of union leaders as "fighting mad" over the dropping of Frank McManamy from membership on the interstate commerce commission.

McManamy

By its reference to "leaders," "Labor" of course especially means leaders of the railroad worker's organizations. It certainly expresses itself with authority; the 15 recognized standard transportation brotherhoods own the publication. It safely can be taken for granted, then, that it knows precisely what it is talking about on this particular subject — is doing not a bit of mere guessing, as might conceivably be the case as to the average newspaper.

Besides being 100 per cent authoritative, in its field, "Labor" has been, thus far, unfalteringly pro-New Deal. The American Federation of Labor has not been quite so whole-heartedly so. The A. F. of L. does not altogether like the National Labor Relations board, which is supposed to have administration backing, and is described by the A. F. of L. as prejudiced in favor of John L. Lewis' C. I. O., a set-up "at outs" with the A. F. of L.. They are friendly to it, and always have been, but they have not "belonged." I do not know that they are outright anti-C. I. O. The fact remains that their organ, "Labor," has plugged unceasingly for Rooseveltianism ever since "F. D." came into office—and before that, when he was a presidential candidate the first time.

Until just now!

Today, on the McManamy issue, it's "fighting mad" at him.

Frank McManamy's Record.

Frank McManamy is a practical working railroadman—a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

It always tacity has been recognized that at least one of his ilk was entitled to a place on the I. C. C. The commission was created in President Theodore Roosevelt's era. As the "practical member," "Teddy" appointed President E. E. Clark of the Order of Railway Conductors. Thenceforward there were never has been an interval without a working railroader in office.

McManamy graduated into his commissionership in 1923. He previously had held important subordinate posts in the set-up.

Recently his current term waxed toward its close.

A committee of the Railway Labor Executives' association called on President Roosevelt to request his reappointment. The committeemen included President David B. Robertson of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, President George M. Harrison of the Railway Clerks and President B. M. Jewell of the Railway Employes' Department—a distinguished group.

According to "Labor," these callers "came away with the impression that McManamy would remain for a long, long time, and that, when a change was contemplated, the chiefs of the standard railroad labor organizations would be consulted."

Instead of which, without a preliminary hint, the job went to J. Hayden Alldredge of Alabama, a T. V. A. official, and McManamy goes overboard.

No especial fault is found with Alldredge. He has a reputation as a "rate specialist" and a "transportation expert." But he is a theorist. He never has worked on a railroad. Neither has another member of the commission, heretofore. McManamy is a practical veteran.

Angry; Also Puzzled.

"Labor" not only is angry; it is puzzled.

The administration is liberal, and so is McManamy. As a worker, his record is highly creditable. It is as clean as a hound's tooth. The only count against him, possibly, is that he is nearly 69 years old.

Well, anyway, "F. D." has angered some erstwhile friends, the railroad workers.

Medical Progress Since Washington.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

TEN DAYS ago we noted the medical practices of Lincoln's lifetime in memory of his birthday on Feb. 12. For Washington's birthday, we can go back nearly another century and observe the medical practices of that time.

In comparing the two lives, and the manners and customs of medical men and of medical science, it is astonishing that there is so little difference. In the hundred years since Lincoln's experience, medicine has progressed more than it did in the two thousand years of which we have record before.

Washington, like Lincoln, never heard of a surgical operation except as an emergency when a man had broken or crushed his leg or arm. Washington, like Lincoln, never dreamed of an anaesthetic to deaden pain during a surgical operation. Washington, like Lincoln, never heard of anybody's fever. There was no thermometer to take a person's temperature either in the time of Washington or Lincoln.

Strong, Vigorous.

George Washington was a strong and vigorous man all his life and had little need for doctors. Since he lived before the days of vaccination against smallpox, it is not surprising that he had this disease.

His fatal illness was of only 48 hours' duration, and the physicians who attended him have been severely criticised for the management of the case.

The record which has come down to us in great detail shows that on Dec. 12, 1799, Washington rode about his farm at Mount Vernon from 10 in the morning until 3 in the afternoon. The weather was very bad, a combination of rain, sleet, snow and cold wind, and when he came in the house the clothing about his neck was wet, and snow was hanging from his hair. Being late, he did not wait to change but sat down immediately to dinner in his wet clothes. He began to have some hoarseness in the evening, but made light of it, going to bed early.

Had a Chill.

At three in the morning he awakened his wife because he was having a chill. His throat was extremely painful and swollen and his voice very hoarse. The overseer of the farm was sent for, and, at Washington's request, bled him of a pint of blood. A little later he was bled again but this did not improve his swallowing. Two physicians were summoned, who again bled him, and it was noted that the blood came slow and thick. Blisters, hot flannel and counter irritants were applied to his throat, but none of them gave him any relief. He was convinced that he was going to die and nearly his final request was that he be allowed to die in peace.

The attending physician's first diagnosis was quinsy. Later this was changed to cynanche trachaeatis. This latter, in modern terminology, would be called diphtheria.

Listen, World!

Whose Nose Is It?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

RUCTIONS in Washington these days. Rumors of "secret senatorial sessions" which may possibly involve us in European affairs, willy nilly. Lazy legislators startled for once, out of their complacent coma. And, over the blather and blither, old Senator Hiram Johnson's raging, eagle cry—

"GOOD GOD, DO YOU NOT, GENTLEMEN, THINK THE AMERICAN PEOPLE HAVE THE RIGHT TO KNOW IF THEY ARE GOING DOWN THE ROAD TO WAR?

"Do you not think the American people, with their experience of the past twenty years, should be informed if their rulers are going to take them even to the brink of war?

"Why should they not be informed? They are our masters, and the only master I recognize. Why should they not be informed if such is the course to be pursued by their government?"

This is not a political column. I am not interested in—and would be incapable of presenting—partisan viewpoints on this particular matter. But I AM interested in people. Particularly American people . . . regardless of whether they are for or against the present administration. They are not voters to me. They are my friends . . . my neighbors . . . the creatures whose future and fate are inevitably and inextricably bound in with my own. So, as I read Senator Johnson's words, I wondered—with a deep, personal urgency—how much of it we all understood. How much we cared. How much we would be willing to do if Words suddenly, once again, flared into War.

Senator Johnson says that WE are the Masters of America. Are we? I wonder.

Consider yourself. (It's time you did.) How much do YOU know about this country you're supposed to rule? And—which is far more important—how much do you FEEL?

How carefully do you follow the political news of the day? Yes, I know it's dry. "Tiresome chatter." Not one-tenth as much fun as fashions or comics or sports . . . or the latest scandals. That's why you skip it . . . and quote something you heard at the lodge or club if someone brings the subject up.

BUT HAVE YOU EVER STOPPED TO THINK WHAT THAT "TIRESOME CHATTER" REALLY MEANS . . . HAVE YOU EVER REALIZED THAT IT DETERMINES THE MOST INTIMATE, PERSONAL DETAILS OF YOUR LIFE?

These items aren't just Washington gossip—to be read today and forgotten tomorrow. They are—THE MAKINGS OF AMERICA . . . as thrilling as Paul Revere's ride . . . as dramatic as the Boston Tea Party, the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Battle of Gettysburg, the Covered Wagon Cavalcade! AND HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT IT ALL?

If those secret conferences in Washington should trick and trap us into another war, you'll yell your head off. But, in the meantime, what are you doing to FILL THAT HEAD WITH VITALLY NECESSARY KNOWLEDGE? And prepare it against unfair manipulation?

You complain you "aren't told about things." But how much do you care about the tremendously important things of which you have already been informed . . . Wage and Hour Laws . . . Child Labor . . . Old Age Pensions . . . Relief Arrangements in your own State?

THERE'S A LOT OF INFLAMMATORY TALK ABOUT "BETRAYALS" IN THIS PRESENT WORLD CRISIS . . . BUT IF AMERICA IS BETRAYED—WHO'LL BE THE REAL JUDAS?

The arrogant leaders who have overstepped their prerogatives... or the lazy, indifferent voters who "can't be bothered" to read up on the daily issues which determine their fate?

THINK IT OVER! You complain that you're "being led around by the nose."

But whose nose is it? And who should guard its rights?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—File this away in your records of screwball situations which take place every hour of the day and night in New York.

The other morning about three o'clock the night clerk on duty at the Ambassador hotel was momentarily stunned to see a young woman clad only in pajamas bounce through the revolving door and approach the desk. Under her arm she carried a kitten.

Before she could speak a young man wearing pajamas and carrying a puppy whirled through the door. Close behind him was a third figure, also male, also wearing pajamas.

"It's like this," the young woman chirped brightly. "We live in Gramercy park and our apartment just burned. All we could save were the pets. May we have a room?"

It was a dazed and open-mouthed young man who shoved a fountain pen into her hand and said, "Sign here, Miss."

* * *

THEN there was that strange occurrence in the foods department of a Manhattan department store. The clerks have to dress very properly there.

About 10 o'clock the head of the department approached one of his helpers and bent upon him a most unpleasant scowl. "How many times must I warn you not to wear a soft collar here?" he demanded icily.

"But starched collars give me a stiff neck," complained the young man.

"That is ridiculous," cried the Big Shot.

"I tell you it's true," went on the fellow. "Some people can't wear anything starched next to their bodies. I'm one of them."

"Then have a doctor write me an order to that effect," sneered the tyrant.

"I'll write it out for you right now," intoned the clerk wearily. "I'm an M. D. I had a little trouble getting started and I'm working here because I need the money."

* * *

WHITNEY BOLTON, drama critic, columnist, and now Hollywood observer for one of the big eastern papers, reports that seven Hollywood columnists attended the preview of "Idiot's Delight" and then wrote that Clark Gable and Norma Shearer were definitely superior to Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, who did the play on Broadway.

Tersely comments Bolton: "(a) they aren't better, and (b) five of the seven who wrote this couldn't possibly know what they were talking about, because they never saw the play."

* * *

Perhaps you know Charles Atlas, the strong man. I am told that recently he received a most touching request, but one which, unfortunately, he was compelled to refuse.

It seems that a fellow in the southwest wrote him and said: "I understand you have built yourself up to where you can even bend iron bars. I wonder if you would help build me up so I can bend iron bars."

Ordinarily Atlas would have been delighted to tackle such an assignment. But this was a different matter. Instead of signing a name to the letter the applicant signed—a number—a prison number.

A Farmer's Diary

Unique Hen House.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THREE walls of the chicken house are made of straw. The fourth is of glass cloth. The whole thing cost him 16 dollars, and he houses 500 hens and gets a greater egg production than anyone in his locality.

The foundation of the walls is wire mesh, stretched around posts eight inches square and six to eight feet high. The wire is nailed to both sides of the posts and in the space between clean straw is packed, making a solid wall that is yet porous enough to furnish ventilation. The southern side of the shed is made of glass cloth, to admit the sun.

The roof is, likewise, straw. Pieces of worn-out wire fence were criss-crossed upon the rafters, and upon this the straw was piled, heaped to shed the rain. A thick layer of straw on the floor absorbs the moisture.

Inside this building, on a cold windy day, I found the atmosphere warm, and the hens busily scratching and singing—and laying eggs. Occasionally the litter upon the floor is removed and clean straw is brought in. Everyday the farmer brings a crate and fills it with new white eggs. Every other day he carries his eggs to market.

"Why don't my hens lay like yours do?" his neighbors ask him.

"Don't know, I'm sure," he will say, and grin. "Maybe your layout was too expensive."

"I've been doing it this way for several years," said the inventor of the novel hen coop. "It doesn't look so hot, but it works all right. One year they did get the pox, though, and I had to fumigate."

"How could you do that?"

"I just took the hens out and lit a match to the works. Then I built me a new hen shed in a different place. There ain't been no trouble since."

Civil Service Waits.

Civil service commission reorganization was deferred until, Senator Whittemore said, the leadership found a bill considered satisfactory. Governor Bricker told newsmen he unqualifiedly favored reorganizing the merit system administration but Whittemore indicated none of the bills offered thus far was acceptable.

The Ohio Civil Service council an organization backing reorganization of the commission, said in a statement that "political maneuvering" was delaying action on the bills it sponsored and blamed Whittemore for failing to expedite public hearings.

The senate last night passed a house-approved appropriation of $12,200,000 for school foundation program distributions in the first three months of 1939. The partial appropriations bill carried $400,000 for the same purpose.

Appropriations were made from the general revenue fund for the first time, schools previously receiving state aid through earmarking of specific taxes.

The senate taxation committee also recommended for passage a house-approved bill for funding the foundation program deficit of $12,000,000 in outstanding indebtedness and nearly $6,000,000 more which school districts already have authorization to borrow.

A proposed legislative study of the state's poor relief problem came one step nearer actuality when the senate taxation committee recommended adoption of a house joint resolution setting up a 10-member committee to draft the 1939-40 program.

A bill providing redemption of cancelled sales tax stamps at three per cent of their face value was made ready for the governor's signature when the senate concurred in house amendments. It is designed to aid in stricter enforcement of the tax.

160 AT BANQUET

Galion Father-Son Event Held at Reformed Church.

GALION — Sponsored by Roy Eichhorn, president of the Men's Brotherhood class of the First Reformed church, the annual Father-Son banquet was held Monday evening in the church basement with 160 men and boys present.

The banquet opened with the singing of the Doxology by all present, and a prayer by the church pastor, Rev. R. R. Elliker. The dinner was served by the Dorcas society of the church and during this time, music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra under the direction of Charles Tracht.

When the program was presented, Herman L. Ricker acted as toastmaster, and those who had toasts were Fred Heiser and Clarence Decker. After a trombone solo by Charles Tracht, the address of the evening was delivered by Rev. William M. Martin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Galion. His subject was "Playing the Man." Rev. Elliker pronounced the benediction to close the program.

Shelby Police Investigate Dog Poisoning Cases.

SHELBY—Shelby police today were investigating 10 cases of dog poisoning which occurred during the past several weeks here, all in the west side of the city. Two dogs have died from the effects of poison, police said.

The investigation was started Monday following a report made to the police by Dr. William H. Hensen, Shelby veterinary, that he had treated three cases of dog poisoning within 24 hours. The dogs that were poisoned were owned by Clayton Mayer, 133 West Main street; Tom Gregoris, 124½ West Main street; and Wilbur Carlson, 148½ West Main street.

Dr. Hensen said that the dog belonging to Carlson had died and that two weeks ago, a dog owned by Clarence Went, 24 Steele avenue, had died from poisoning.

Dr. Henson disclosed that the dissection of both dogs after death showed that the cause of the deaths was strychnine poisoning.

COAL PURCHASE FINDINGS MADE AGAINST MAYOR

Dustman at Bucyrus Hit for Selling $1,356 in Coal for City's Schools.

BUCYRUS — Findings totaling $1,356.71 for coal purchased from Mayor George T. Dustman's Coal company for Bucyrus public schools were made public today by state examiners, Olive Brush and Meil K. McCue, working out of the office of State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The coal was purchased illegally, the examiners ruled, citing the statute which prohibits an official from selling supplies or other equipment for use in public institutions.

Before taking office as mayor, Dustmant was a state examiner himself.

Several other minor findings were made, the largest of which was for $49.69 against the Fair Publishing house for track ribbons.

The examiners report shows a balance of $43,153.36 in the school's general fund; $20,682.68 in the bond fund and $4.26 in the book fund. Bonded indebtedness is $457,500 and balances in the various minor funds total $1,640.36.

The examination covers a period from Sept. 1, 1936 to Nov. 30, 1938.

LUST RITES WEDNESDAY

BUYRUS—Funeral services will be held at the home one-half mile west of Chatfield Wednesday afternoon for Moses Eust, 86, lifelong Crawford county farmer, who died suddenly at his home at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning, of a heart attack. Services at the Pietist church in Chatfield township will follow and interment will be made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

The deceased is survived by seven children, Charles, Lloyd and Clarence of Chatfield township and Landis, with whom he made his home; William of Bloomville; Jesse and Tiffin and Mrs. Mollencopf of Detroit, Mich. Twenty-seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, also survive. His wife, Elizabeth Seibolt, died 14 years ago.

ROTARIANS MEET

Two New Members Join Galion Club at Dinner Session.

GALION—Two new members, Ralph Telfer and J. H. Ulmer, were welcomed into the Galion Rotary club at the dinner meeting Monday night at Carmel's.

The program was in charge of C. H. Rensch, instructor in the vocational shop department of Senior high school. With him were four boys who are enrolled in the department, Francis Patterson, Ray Haspeslagh, Dick Kump and Harold Finical.

Haspeslagh told of the machine shop of the department, while Kump described the two kinds of welding studied. The various related subjects which are taught to the shop boys were described by Finical, and Patterson told of the mechanical drawing course.

SCHOOL CLOSES

SHELBY — Shelby high school will be closed Wednesday due to the annual Martha Washington tea at the school auditorium during the afternoon. The grade schools will close at noon.

OWN VOCATION EACH TO HIS
By John C. Davis, Druggist.

A banker might paint his house, a jeweler might build a house, a housewife might repair her gas range. They might—but seldom do. Such tasks are consigned to experienced artisans specializing in those fields.

How much more important it is to engage the services of a medical doctor when your health needs rebuilding or repairing.

You can secure a set of plans for a house, or directions for repairing a gas range, then by carefully following those directions turn out a job that has all the necessary requirements to insure satisfaction.

Self-medication, without years of university training and practical experience, is something else. Our intricate, internal organs and their many reasons for functioning — properly or otherwise—make it absolutely imperative that an experienced physician be called when body building or repairing is needed.

It is also true that only a qualified pharmacist should be permitted to fill the doctor's prescriptions.

GETS 10 DAYS

ASHLAND—Paul Andrews of Ashland was in the county jail today, where he will serve a sentence of ten days—all because he had Ardell Andrews arrested after having allegedly lost $15 to him in a poker game, and then at the hearing in police court stated that they had been playing bridge, and that he had lost no money at all.

The ten days sentence was imposed on Andrews for contempt.

three Chinese pilots were injured while eight Japanese aircraft were downed.

France gave her semi-official envoy to the Nationalist Spain, Sen. Leon Berard, fresh instructions for trying to reach a basis for formal recognition of Generalissimo Franco's regime.

Though France held little hope current negotiations would bring peace to Spain, French efforts were bent toward swinging Franco away from the Rome-Berlin axis. Military dispatches reported increasing activity on the central Spanish front where a new Nationalist offensive was expected against the one-fourth of Spain still in government hands.

Britain added a new slogan—"Peace Through Trade"—to her appeasement policy as debate on the empire's defenses neared an end in parliament.

Dispatch of British trade envoys to both Moscow and Berlin was regarded as significant, particularly since closer trade relations with Soviet Russia might open the way for closer diplomatic co-operation.

STAGE ANNUAL HOLIDAY TEA

SHELBY — Some 400 mothers, upper class girls and guests are expected for the 15th annual Martha Washington tea at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the high school auditorium. The annual affair is sponsored by the senior class as part of the school's Washington's birthday celebration.

Reception of the guests will be in charge of the senior girls. An address of welcome to the visiting mothers and friends will be given by Roger Adam, president of the senior class. A program will follow.

ANNUAL SCHOOL REPORT GIVEN

Cost of Operating Shelby Public System in 1938 Listed at $98,000.

SHELBY — The operation and maintenance of the Shelby public schools during the past year cost $98,069.77, according to the annual report released today by Miss Cora Boyles, clerk of the Shelby board of education. The figures are approximately the same as those for 1937.

Total expenditures for the year were $207,140.33, while the receipts were set at $214,473.77. The schools had a balance of $766.32 in its general fund and $924.93 in the bond retirement fund at the close of the year.

During the year the $80,000 addition to the high school was completed. In addition, over $8,000 was spent for equipment and improvements to the old buildings. The board of education purchased two school buses during 1938 at a cost of $4,000.

The addition of two bus drivers raised the cost of the transportation of the students from $5,173.36 for 1937 to $6,766.49 for the past year. Another increase was shown in the total instruction expenditures which includes the teachers' salaries. The increase from $60,455 for 1937 to $62,000 for 1938 was due to the hiring of an additional teacher for the industrial arts course which was added to the high school curriculum last year.

The total valuation of the buildings, equipment and other assets were set at $559,323.47 at the close of the year, while the certificates of indebtedness outstanding were $197,127, leaving an excess of assets of about $362,196. Other items of interest include total expenditures as follows: administration, $5,229.70; libraries, $387.15; operation of school plant, $15,164.72; and maintenance of plant, $5,351.52.

COUNCIL MEETS

SHELBY—City council held a brief 10-minute session last night for its semi-monthly meeting at the city hall. No action was taken by the council because of the absence of Councilmen C. E. Morris and Chester Bell.

CLOSE POSTOFFICE

SHELBY—Shelby postoffice will be closed all day Wednesday, Postmaster Leo McGaw announced today. No city or rural deliveries will be made.

DIES IN WEST

Mrs. Ellen Shade, 71, Formerly of Galion, Stricken.

GALION — Word has been received in Galion of the death of Mrs. Ellen Elizabeth Shade, 71, widow of the late William R. Shade, well known Erie railroad engineer.

Mrs. Shade, who was well known in both Galion and Marion, died Feb. 9, at Frannie, Wyoming, where she had made her home for the past 10 years. Prior to that time she had lived in Galion for over 50 years. Burial was made at Powell, Wyoming, beside the body of her sister, Mrs. Elnora Clark, also a former Galion resident.

The deceased was born in Meigs county, and was married to William Shade about 45 years ago in Galion.

She was a member of the Christian church and was a contributor to the new edifice of the Church of Christ here.

Ashland Teacher Who Quit

After a two-hour session over charges by pupils and parents that children in her school at Ash'and, O., had been "whipped without reason," Gwendolyn Workman, 32, snapped at the hearing although she tried to evade the camera, submitted her resignation to the school board.

A new teacher took over the school class which for three days has been on "strike" because of the alleged "too severe" whippings. Board President C. S. McNail said Miss Workman reiterated that she was justified in her punishment and denied being "cruel."

MANSFIELD ATTORNEY TALKS AT GALION FATHER-SON BANQUET

GALION — John F. Kramer, Mansfield attorney, was the speaker Monday night for the annual Father-Son banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Lutheran church. His subject was "Be a Good Sport." He addressed 80 members and guests.

The program was in charge of E. D. Horn, and other features included an instrumental duet by Richard Horn and Gale Shriner with Althea Ness at the piano; and selections by a male quartet composed of John Guinther, Lowell and C. C. Ness and Fred Wilson. Two films were shown by Richard Horn of the visual education department of the Galion schools.

In charge of the banquet were Lowell Ness, Fred Wilson and C. L. Ailes, and the meal was prepared by Mrs. Ness, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Ailes, Mrs. H. E. Erickson, Mrs. C. C. Ness and Mrs. Arla Barr

HOLD DINNER AT CRESTLINE

Knights of Columbus Euchre League Entertained at St. Joseph's Parish.

CRESTLINE—Rev. N. T. Bouschere, pastor of Sacred Heart of Jesus church at Shelby Settlement, was guest speaker at the dinner meeting held in St. Joseph's parish hall.

The affair was given by the Knights of Columbus County Euchre league as a climax to this season's series of games. The league is made up of councils from Galion, New Washington and Crestline. Bucyrus council was a member of the league in former years but dropped out this season.

About 110 were present for the dinner served by members of the Altar society of the church. Paul Zellar, who recently moved to Galion, is grand knight of Crestline council and acted as toastmaster and introduced the speaker.

A program arranged by William Reindl was presented as follows: vocal solo by Mary Ann Frye, violin solo by John Perito, vocal solos of old-time medley and modern song sung by Phyllis Hoke.

Miss Jennie Reindl accompanied at the piano for the above numbers and contributed several vocal solos, playing her own accordion accompaniment.

Sunday for a wedding at the parsonage of a former member of his pastorate at Delaware. The single ring service united in marriage Olive Jordan of Leonardsburg and Dever Bishop of Norwalk. Attending the couple were Mrs. Robert Fogalsan of Mansfield, sister of the bride, and the bridegroom's brother, Carl Bishop of Norwalk.

The couple will live in Delaware where Mr. Bishop is a salesman for the Sell Office Supply company.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhey W. Rieser whose marriage took place here Sunday afternoon at the altar of the First Methodist church, have gone to housekeeping in a newly furnished home at 389 David street, Marion. The ceremony Sunday, which was a single service read by Rev. W. N. Robertson, took place in the presence of a host of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a spring blue street length dress fashioned with a bolero. Her accessories were of oxblood shade and a corsage of American beauty rosebuds and violets completed her outfit. Her attendant was Mrs. Paul Hildreth of Marion, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a two-toned grey outfit with fuchsia accessories and a corsage of red and white rosebuds.

Kenward W. Price, brother of the bride, was the best man.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Cliedon Tracht, at 618 South Market street. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tract, and Mrs. C. Kinsler of Marion, mother of the bridegroom.

The bride was graduated from East 55th Street hospital in Cleveland, School of Nursing, 1929, and has been employed at the Good Samaritan hospital here and on special cases at the present time. She was graduated from Galion high school in 1926.

Mr. Rieser is the son of William Rieser of 617 North Main street, Marion, and Mrs. C. Kinsler of Marion. He attended Upper Sandusky high school, and is employed as manager of the meat department of the Cooper Grocery and Meat Market in Marion.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

Mrs. Etta Beveridge entertained the Thursday Bridge club last week. Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis and Mrs. Eva Tilton were substitutes. Score cards, pads and prizes were all reminders of Washington's birthday. Score gifts went to Mrs. Fern Crum, Mrs. Florence Thomas, Mrs. Gladys Templer and Mrs. Eva Tilton.

SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise birthday party was held Saturday afternoon for June Smith during the Children's Story hour at the Public library. Individual cakes, each topped by a lighted candle, were served for refreshments.

BRIEFS

Mrs. Ollie Thompson is quite ill at her home on North Park drive.

SO USE COMMON SENSE! Drink more water, eat more fruit and vegetables. And if assistance is needed, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They not only assure gentle yet thorough bowel movements but ALSO stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are harmless. Used successfully for over 20 years by Dr. F. M. Edwards in treating patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile, today Olive Tablets are justly FIRST choice of thousands of grateful users. Test their goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All druggists.

THEATERS

NELSON EDDY has an entirely different role in "Let Freedom Ring" from anything he has done in his past screen work. This is a straight dramatic role, with his music incidental to the action. It's the story of a smashing fight between middlewestern farmers and the early railroads, with a stolen newspaper press serving as ammunition for the farmers' side. Eddy is the son of one of the farmers, while Virginia Bruce has the role of his childhood sweetheart. Other featured players in the picture, which is as yet unreleased, are Lionel Barrymore, Edward Arnold and Victor McLaglen.

* * *

Boone County Jamboree.

Mansfielders who have listened to Lazy Jim Day over the air lanes will have an opportunity to see the hillbilly philosopher "in person" Wednesday and Thursday on the Madison stage when the Boone County Folks move into that theater for a two-day engagement. Another well-known radio personality with the group is Helen Diller, Canadian cowgirl, singer and yodler. The Boone County Jamboree is heard regularly over WLW every Friday night. Lafe Harkness, harmonica player; Happy Hal O'Halloran, veteran master of ceremony; Kenny Carlson, ventriloquist; Jo and Alma, the two Kentucky girls and several other featured artists are with the company. A Torchy Blaine adventure will be the picture attraction.

* * *

Timely Subject.

Frank McGlynn, sr., who plays Lincoln in "Lincoln In the White House," an historical and patriotic short subject at the Ohio, recites the Gettysburg speech in a stirring manner, although not comparable to the speech as it was given a few years ago by Charles Laughton in "Ruggles of Red Gap," which is still one of the most memorable bits of spine-tingling oratory in motion picture history. The Lincoln subject, however, is particularly timely this month and at this time of stress. "Wings of the Navy," with George Brent, Olivia de Havilland and John Payne is the feature attraction at the Ohio.

* * *

Hepburn and Grant.

Philip Barry's play of two sisters in love with the same man has been filmed under the original title "Holiday," and comes to the Ritz for two days, starting tomorrow, with Katharine Hepburn, Cary Grant, Lew Ayres and Doris Nolan. Lew Ayres started his comeback trail with this film. A murder mystery, the solution of which is up to the customers in the end, is told in "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse" with Edward G. Robinson.

* * *

Music and Blackmail.

Nevada's divorce city is the setting for "Thanks for Listening," in which Pinky Tomlin and Maxine Doyle went a hectically romantic way. Music and blackmail are interspersed in the plot. The picture will be shown for one day only tomorrow at the Park. On the same bill will be "Crime Ring" with Allan Lane and Frances Mercer, a story of crime conditions which affect women.

* * *

Taylor at Majestic.

A handsome prizefighter is invited to a college prom—by mistake—and a romance is fairly on its way in "The Crowd Roars." But there is more than that to this Robert Taylor picture which cleverly builds up suspense from the moment an innocent person is accidentally killed in the beginning of the picture until the end when another is quite justly killed. Maureen O'Sullivan and Edward Arnold are featured. Nelson Eddy and Jeanette MacDonald in "Girl of the Golden West" is also shown.

Savannah School Project Wins Approval From PWA.

SAVANNAH—Approval of the project for building a farm shop as an addition to the Savannah Clear Creek school was received here from WPA authorities, it was announced by members of the school board.

The federal grant was for $3,690, and provides for a shop located 40 feet northwest from the present school building, containing a finish room, a shop room and a recitation room.

It was announced that work on the new building was to begin this morning, with the structure to be completed within 60 days.

BECHTEL RITES ON THURSDAY

NEW WASHINGTON—Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday at St. Bernard's Catholic church for Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Bechtel, 85, widow of John Bechtel, who died Sunday night at her home here following an illness of four weeks. Rev. William Sossong will officiate and burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mrs. Bechtel was born Oct. 29, 1853, in Rochester, N. Y. She was a member of the Catholic church and the L. C. B. A. and Altar society of the church.

Surviving are six children, Mrs. Regina Sheibley, Frank, A. W., and L. J. Bechtel, all of New Washington, Jacob of Lakewood, and Mrs. Verona Cramer of Tiro.
